Fatal Fire Panic In Shanghai Theater Is Followed By Attack On Hospital

FIREMEN BATTLE FOR LIVES AS MADDENED THRONG TAKES FLIGHT

Flower World Is Scene Of Tragedy When Explosion In Film Projecting Room Alarms Crowd Of Spectators

Three persons were killed, eight were fatally hurt and were not expected to live through the night, ten others were seriously injured and scores received lesser wounds following a panic and fight for life of 2,000 maddened Chinese on a narrow stairway leading from the third floor of The Flower World, a Chinese moving picture theater and amusement place on Hoopeh Road, near Foochow Road, last night.

It may be said that it is due to Chief Officer W. W. Pett of the Fire Department and Supervising Fireman J. Gilhooley, both of whom had to fight for their own lives with hundreds of terrorised Chinese that the toll of death did not mount into the scores.

Two thousand Chinese, men, women and children, were packed on the benches in the moving picture theater of the amusement place on the third floor of the building when shortly before 8 o'clock an explosion occurred in the projecting room where a roll of picture film suddenly blazed up.

A cry of wild fear arose and in an instant the whole audience was on its feet surging for the narrow exit that led to the concrete stairway.

CHINESE FIREMEN COOL

In the emergency the two Chinese firemen stationed at the theater behaved with remarkable coolness and heroism and their promptness undoubtedly saved many lives. After turning in the alarm which brought Chief Pett and the Central Division to the scene in the space of minutes one of the firemen brought a hose into action and extinguished the slight blaze that had started in the projecting room from the burning film while the other stationed himself in the exit and succeeded for a time in stemming the frenzied human tide that even then had begun to push its way over a number of women and children who had fallen.

After the dead and injured had been removed from the scene those who had been hurt to Shantung Road Hospital, a great throng gathered in the roadway in front of the hospital, most of them relatives of people who had been in the theater and who were missing. The crowd outside the hospital in its anxiety over missing relatives threatened to rush the hospital and a detachment of police that was summoned arrived in time to quell what might have developed into a serious riot. This occurred shortly before midnight and it was then said that 200 persons known to have been in the theater were still missing.

The stairway that leads from the third floor of the building in which the theater is located is of concrete and is about five feet in width. The Chinese policeman who had stationed himself at the theater exit leading to this stairs at length was forced to give way before the fighting mass of people which poured out and at once wedged itself on the upper stairs between the wall on one side and a wide hard wood balustrade that rested on heavy cast iron supports anchored into the cement. Hundreds lost their footing and other hundreds hurling themselves downward trampled those prostrate only to fall themselves until the whole passage became tightly jammed to a depth of four feet with bodies twisted and packed into every position.

BALUSTRADE BLOCKS STAIRS

It was then that the stout balustrade and with its cast iron supports was torn from the cement and fell to a lower stairs and a cascade of falling bodies dropped after it from six to ten feet to a lower angle of the stairs

A Counterfeit Hero

It is the easiest thing in the world to deceive a newspaper man—providing the person doing the deceiving has proper credentials such as, for instance, the uniform of the American Navy. For the average American reporter that uniform is sufficient warranty of good faith. And because this is so some little embarrassment has been caused lately to men and officers of the American naval contingent now in port, and to others by reason of statements that were made last Friday evening by Chief Carpenter's Mate Douglas Crossley, who recently was assigned to duty on the U.S. destroyer Elliot.

In the presence of two Shanghai newspaper representatives Crossley on Friday night unfolded a wholly marvelous tale of his own bravery, describing the rescue at the risk of his own life of the commander of a British warship while the war was in progress. For this deed of gallantry he asserted that on the following morning at 10 o'clock he was to receive the British Distinguished Service Medal from Sir Everard Fraser, British Consul-General. He told the story modestly and convincingly while entirely sober and he supplied a mass of details in support of what he said.

It was too late in the evening to warrant disturbing Sir Everard Fraser or officials of the British Consulate to obtain further confirmatory details of Crossley's story, but the next day a reporter of The China Press, which accepted Crossley's report, did approach the British Consul-General and asked if the ceremony of awarding the medal had taken place.

"Why no," he replied. "I read the interesting account about it—but I do not know anything about it."

Following the disclosure that no medal had been awarded to Chief Carpenter's Mate Crossley. Lieut.-Commander E. L. Gunther, in command of Crossley's ship, the Elliot, issued a formal statement yesterday branding Crossley's story as wholly false. He also expressed his regret to Sir Everard Fraser and announced that proper disciplinary measures had been taken.

In the course of his narrative Crossley said that when he received the British award he would have in all ten medals and while now, in view of the circumstances, there may be some doubt about whether he has any medals or not, it is certain that he has achieved at least one kind of distinction which is unique and which should bring its suitable reward.

WHEAT COSTS DROP 13 CENTS AS DRIVE IS MADE ON H.C.L.

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Wheat fell 13 cents on today's market as the result of the agitation for a general reduction in the prices of foodstuffs. Other grains dropped to the lowest prices touched for the 1920 crop.

New York, September 25.—Woolen goods, clothing, shoes and food are expected to participate in the present downward trend in prices. Several of the largest clothiers have already made reductions of 25 percent.

The present movement to reduce the excessive cost of living has spread through the whole United States.

JAPAN-GERMAN COMMERCE PACT IS SOLF'S ADVICE

New Minister To Tokio, In First Public Address, Urges Agreement

Must Go Hand In Hand Along Paths Of Industry, Is Speaker's Plea

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Sept. 27.—The German Minister, Dr. Solf, in the course of a lengthy speech before the Economic Association, declared that Germany and Japan must go hand in hand along the path of industry and commerce. He paid a profuse tribute to Japan's commercial expansion, which he attributed to the courage and enterprise latent in the soul of the Japanese for 2,000 years. He deprecated alarm at the present economic depression.

He said the Germans were delighted in the expectation that the Japanese would befriend them, and that the war-severed ties between these two great nations would be reknit even more closely than before.

He declared that Japan could not expect to export much to Germany at present, but this would be counter-balanced by the exchange of their mental resources.

This was the Minister's first public speech since his arrival, and shows that the Germans are making determined efforts to regain lost ground in Japan.

RAIL STRIKERS SUSPECTED OF BOMB ATTEMPT

Police Throughout America Besieged With False Reports Of Threats

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 23.—The police today discovered a bomb fuse burning on the platform of Brooklyn Station on the Elevated Railway. They consider it possible that the bomb may have been placed by railway strikers.

New York, Sept. 23.—Following on the fiasco at the New York Customs House, where nothing happened after the warning that a bomb explosion would take place there at a specified time, the public authorities in many towns in the United States are now received a perfect deluge of hoax warnings, on which the police authorities feel compelled to act, though convinced that they are dealing with practical jokers.

An outstanding instance occurred at Cleveland, where, in consequence of the Postmaster receiving a letter containing a warning that a number of banks were to be blown up, motor cars filled with detectives were rushed to the threatened buildings, but up to the present nothing has happened.

Mob Attacks Gates At Ellis Island

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 24.—Mr. Wallis, the Commissioner of immigration, is going to Washington in an attempt to remedy the terrible congestion at Ellis Island, in New York Harbor. He declared that he might even ask the State Department to hold up passports, in order to prevent a further paralysis of the immigrant system.

The situation reached a climax on September 22, when some 2,000 relatives and friends of 3,800 immigrants, then on the Island, broke down the iron gates in an endeavor to obtain the release of these aliens.

New York, September 26.—The death is announced of Mr. Jacob Schiff, member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., and one of America's best-known bankers.

Mr. Schiff was born in Germany 73 years ago but for many years was a leader in American financial circles. His philanthropies were extensive, although carried out with no ostentation. He was one of America's most highly respected men of great wealth.

MINERS TO DELAY WEEK BEFORE CALL OF STRIKE

Arguments Made By Lloyd George Are Heeded By Men

MINERS LISTEN

Perilous Industrial Situation Overcome By Advice

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 24.—The miners' Conference this afternoon decided to suspend the strike notices for one week, as requested by Mr. Lloyd George.

London, Sept. 24.—The Miners' Federation Executive and the Coalowners' Central Committee will meet at the Board of Trade tomorrow.

London, Sept. 24.—Mr. Smillie opened the proceedings at today's conference between the Miners' Executive and Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bonar Law, the president of the Board of Trade and the Coal Controller by announcing that the miners had reluctantly decided that, in view of the Government's inability to concede an immediate increase in wages, they could not suspend their strike notices or prevent the strike taking place tomorrow.

The Prime Minister, replying, said that this would be a very painful announcement for millions of people both in this country and abroad because all knew that it would bring hardship and privation to many a household.

ASKS FOR DELAY

The Premier added that there were only 24 hours before the plunge over the precipice would be taken. All that he asked was the suspension of the notices for one week in order to meet the owners. He was assured that it would not take two days to discover a basis on which wages would be made dependent on output and within a month the miners could secure an appreciable increase in wages.

Mr. Lloyd George said that he was convinced that his proposal would not merely give the miners what they wanted but with a little more effort a little more than they were asking.

RAISES WAGE QUESTION

Mr. Smillie declared that the cause of the fall in output was the exhaustion of coal without new collieries being opened up and they (the executive) could not go back to the Miners' Conference with a proposal for wages to be dependent on output for there was no power on earth would get the miners to suspend their notices on that.

Mr. Lloyd George admitted Mr. Smillie's contention that output depended on the mineowners as well as the miners and said that he had put his proposal before the owners and that they were prepared to examine it. All he asked was that the miners should suspend their notices for one week and meet the owners to consider whether the proposal was

BANKERS' NEW STATUS

Peking Does Not Recognise French Protection Of Institution

(Staff Wire to The China Press)

Peking, Sept. 26.—The National flag at the Russian Legation was hauled down today at noon.

The Chinese colors were raised over the Municipal Building of the Russian Concession in Tientsin at the same time. Mr. Huang Yung-liang, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs in Tientsin, immediately took charge of the documents, while the responsibility for the maintainance of peace and order of the Russian concession is transferred to Yang I-teh, the police commissioner.

The Russo-Asiatic Bank claims French protection inasmuch as the capital is French. But the Chinese authorities have refused to recognise the claim.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 26.—Prince Koudacheff on Sept. 22 addressed representations to the Waichinopu to the effect that, when M. Kalmikoff was being transferred from Kirin, two other Russians were also killed by Chinese guards. Though declaring that it is not guilty of any offense in this matter, the Waichiaopu has promised to institute early official inquires.

Bank Rate To Be Raised Soon, Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 25.—It is reported that the Bank rate will be raised in the near future. This decision, it is understood, will be taken in the hope that large stocks of goods, at present held back, will be placed on the market, and thereby bring down prices.

It is stated that the Treasury is now determined to make a serious effort to restrict the activities of speculators, and to compel merchants to disgorge their accumulated stocks.

At present the Bank-rate is seven percent.

CHEN CHUNG-MING CAPTURES CANTON; TSEN TAKES REFUGE IN KOWLOON, PEKING HEARS

Tsen Chen-hsuan

Liu Ta-ching And Ma Chi Killed In Waichow Conflict

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, September 27.—The Cabinet today received a despatch from Canton to say that Canton has fallen into the hands of the forces of General Chen Chung-ming.

Tsen Chun-hsuan, who styled himself and his lieutenants as the Administrative Directorate after the Constitutional leaders, Dr. Wu Ting-fang, General Tang Chi-yao, Dr. Sun Yat-sen and Mr. Tang Shao-yi had declared the severance of their relations with Tsen, is now a refugee in Kowloon. It is believed that his henchman, Wen Tsung-yao, whom he appointed director and foriegn minister of his administration is with him. The report of his escape, however, was not yet been confirmed.

A despatch received by the Ministry of Communications from the Hongkong telegraph office states that following the capture of Waichow, the two Kwangtung irredentists, Generals Ma Chi and Liu Ta-ching were killed.

Another report says that General Wei Pan-ping, who up to the present had remained neutral, has declared his independence from the Tsen Government and on Sunday started a bombardment of Kiangmen. The fall of the city is expected.

Meanwhile, volunteers have been organised among the civilians for the ousting of Kwangsi troops from Kwangtung. They have elected Wu Ti-chen, a journalist, as their commander-in-chief.

The fall of Canton and the Tsen administration, which has been claiming as the genuine representative government of the Southwest, was expected following the capture of Waichow. In spite of the fact that five out of the original seven members of the Administrative Directorate withdrew from Canton when Tsen dissolved the old Parliament and forced Dr. Wu to leave the Southern Capital, it will be remembered, Tsen allied himself with the monarchist, Lu Yung-ting, and set up a government.

To make his regime appear legal to foreigners, Tsen recruited Wen Tsung-yao, then Deputy Commercial Commissioner of Pukow, a northern appointee, and Chen Ching-tao, who was convicted in the notorious Peking bribery scandal about three years ago, to be directors of the Canton Administration, serving respectively as Ministers of Foreign Affairs and of Finance.

The capture of Waichow by the Kwangtung leader, Chen Chun-ming who raised the cry of Canton for Kwangtungese, nailed the fate of Tsen as well as his bogus outfit. Reports were current that all of them fled the Southern capital immediately after the fall of Waichow, which was only 30 miles from Canton and which formed the most important stronghold for the remnants of the Southern Government.

But the severest blow to Tsen was made when General Wei Pan-ping declared his independence. Wei, though serving with the Kwangsi army, was himself a Kwangtung native and throughout the entire conflict, remained non-committal. His forces, consisting of one seasoned division and two gunboats, were strong enough to alter the situation.

Trotsky Is Offered Supreme Command Of New Bolsheviki Army

Second Massacre Feared As Japanese Troops Prepare To Leave Siberia And People Are Said To Be Panic Stricken

(Reuter's Service)

Helsingfors, Sept. 25.—The Russian Soviet is reorganising the Red Army, the supreme command of which has been offered to M. Trotsky, with M. Podvoisky as his assistant.

London, Sept. 24.—M. Krassin, the Bolshevik envoy, has received wireless instructions from Moscow to deny the charge that the Russian delegation in London has been concerned in the sale of Russian jewels or the offer of a subsidy to the Daily Herald. M. Krassin has not yet complied with Moscow's instructions.

The Daily Mail points out that the statements of Moscow and of Mr. Meynell, director of the Daily Herald, on the subject of the alleged subsidy, are directly contradictory and that both cannot be correct.

WEAKEN TO POLES

M. Joffe, the chief Soviet delegate, made the dramatic announcement that the Soviet was prepared to abandon its demands for the reduction of the Polish Army, disarmament, and the cessation of war industries, also for railway privileges in regard to traffic through Poland. The Bolsheviki, he said, were prepared to agree to an armistice with a line considerably to the east of the "Curzon line," leaving Eastern Galicia in the hands of the Poles, on the understanding that there shall be a subsequent referendum as to the form of Government.

CALL TO FREE UKRAINE

The Soviet demands, however, Polish recognition of the independence of the Ukraine, Lithuania and White Russia.

Dr. Ryasanov, the successor of M. Kameneff as one of the Russian emissaries to Great Britain, arrived in London last night. He is a well known Communist and a doctor of medicine, and is reputed to have been largely responsible for finishing Kerensky's regime. He was also one of the leaders of the "Third Internationale." Bogus Officer In Siberia Coup Gets Japanese Money

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Sept. 27.—According to the Nichi Nichi Shimbun, a man wrapped in an officer's cloak entered the camp of the Japanese 22nd Regiment at Beschenka, in Siberia, at midnight on July 7, and ordered the corporal in charge of a money chest containing 47,000 yen to hand it over.

The corporal saluted and obeyed. Recent clues are expected to lead to the capture of the swindler.

Dumdum Bullets Used By Irish In Attack On Police, Is Charge

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 23.—An official statement on the subject of the "battle" between armed Sinn Feiners and police near Dromin Mill, County Clare, shows that according to the police report, the Sinn Feiners, who were the attackers, used dumdum bullets. In addition to the four police killed, already reported, another who was missing has since been found dead, while a sixth is dying.

The reprisals which the police took subsequently were of a terrifying nature. In addition to the burning of a number of houses in the neighboring town of Milltown Malbay, the town halls at Lahinch and Ennistimon were destroyed and at least a score of houses and shops burned down. The population fled panic-stricken to the hills and woods. The damage is estimated at many thousands of pounds.

NEW CHARGES MADE

Meanwhile recent Courts Martial have brought out fresh evidence against the rebels including documents urging that the guerilla warfare, which is being waged against the authority of the Crown, be made more intense and more menacing.

The wages of the Dublin postal staffs, amounting to several thousands of pounds, were stolen from the Parcels Office Friday night by two armed men, who covered the night porter with revolvers, locked him in a cellar, and then decamped with their haul.

ATTEMPT ASSASSINATION

London, September 25.—An official report states that an attempt has been made to assassinate Major-General Sir Edward Strickland at Cork. The attempt was frustrated by Gen. Strickland, who received no injury, returning the fire with, it is believed, effective results.

Later.—It appears that Gen. Strickland, who commands the Cork Division, was motoring at six o'clock in the evening towards the city, when he was fired on by a number of men. His driver was wounded, and the car riddled with bullets. Gen. Strickland returned the fire and hit one man, who was either killed or wounded as he was carried away by his comrades.

"IN GLASS HOUSES"

London, September 24.—A telegram from New York states that the weekly Nation, in announcing the completion of the investigation conducted on its behalf by a committee of a hundred members into the rights and wrongs of the Irish question, makes a naive admission.

While claiming, in justification for its action, that the internal affairs of one nation profoundly affect every other nation, it declares that Americans live in glass houses, for they have failed to solve the negro problems, it further asserts that the American record in Haiti and San Domingo is "wickedly imperialistic," and that 3,000 innocent Haitians have been done to death. It therefore declares that it would welcome an English inquiry into these matters.

Reds Reactionaries Says Sir Auckland Geddes

(Reuter's Service)

St. Louis, August 25 (by mail).—The Bolsheviki were pictured as the enemies of democracy, of Lincoln's ideal of government, "of the people by the people,"—in an address by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, delivered before the American War Association's annual convention here today.

Sir Auckland Geddes declared that Great Britain and the U. S. "are co-trustees for humanity, that the theory and practice of democracy shall not suffer distortion or diminution in spite of the avalanches of assault loosed upon it by its enemies."

MUST STAND TOGETHER

He said that Lincoln had best epitomised the best form of government the human race had been able to devise as "by the people for the people" but he doubted whether even in Europe there was a majority, which supported it, and certainly there was not a majority which understood it: "If this idea of Government is to continue," the Ambassador continued, "we who believe in it will have to stand firmly together for there are powerful forces opposed to it. So far as we know, the millions of Asia have opposed the idea throughout all their history, although a small number of Asiatics are now loud in its support, Islam is necessarily opposed to it. The Bolsheviks are naturally violently opposed to it. So too is everyone who has what he regards as a big idea or great principle of incalculable good, which he wishes to force upon the people whether they wish it or not."

CALLED REACTIONARIES

"Let the Bolsheviks and their supporters in all lands prate as they will of reactionaries and imperialists. They themselves are the reactionaries. Their admitted doctrine is to establish a privileged class which they call the proletariat but they mean by that term a select body of their own supporters. Their whole creed is to force on society a great idea which has been revealed to them and to them alone: and, like it or dislike it, society is to swallow it whole—and that is nothing but pure theocract, inevitably leading to tyranny, revolution and chaos or to decadence, conquest and chaos."

In conclusion Sir Auckland Geddes said: "Whatever difficulties might arise between our two nations, I believe nothing is more important than this, that you and we stand together to defend the hard-won hope of mankind that, through law made by the people for their own disciplining, man will at last escape from the toils that have snared the feet of his ancestors and will have taken a great stride toward a solution of the problem how he shall live in communities in peace and ordered freedom."

Social Democrats Lose Seven Seats

(Reuter's Service)

Stockholm, Sept. 24.—The General Election results up to the present show that 182 members of the Riksdag have been elected, viz., 68 Social Democrats, 57 Conservatives, 20 candidates of the Agrarian Union parties, 34 Liberals, and three "Left" Socialists. The Social Democrats have lost seven seats, the "Left" Socialists five, and the Liberals 11, while the Conservatives have gained 12 and the Agrarians nine.

Six Hundred Arrests Are Made In Korea

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Sept. 27.—A telegram from Gensan, Korea, published in the Nichi Nichi Shimbun, reports that police in motor-cars are actively pursuing those who took part in the recent rioting, and have made 600 arrests.

It states that the disturbance started with a group of students shouting "Mansei!" This attracted a crowd, and eventually the shouting of "Kill the Japanese!" culminated in riot and the destruction of buildings. It is denied that foreigners had any connection with the affair.

FRENCHMEN VOTE TO STAND BY GOVERNMENT

M. Leygues Is Left Great Sum Of Money In Will Of Wealthy Friend

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 25.—The Chamber of Deputies has adopted a vote of confidence in the Government by 507 votes to 80.

The extraordinary session then terminated.

Paris, Sept. 24.—The appointment of M. George Leygues as Premier and Foreign Minister is confirmed. The members of the Millerand Cabinet remain in office.

The selection of M. Leygues for the Premiership has occasioned considerable surprise as previously he had not been mentioned among the probable successors to M. Millerand. The appointment is nevertheless generally welcomed.

M. Leygues has frequently held office, most recently under M. Clemenceau, so he will probably secure some measure of good-will from the latter's faithful adherents, which has hitherto not been extended to M. Millerand.

TO UPHOLD MINISTRY

The underlying object of M. Leygues' selection seems to be the maintenance of the present Ministry, which enjoys the confidence of the public, rather than casting about for another Premier with new office-holders.

M. Leygues appears to be a favorite of fortune for, apart from the gratification of political ambition, it appears that he became wealthy in unexpected circumstances. He was the close friend of the business magnate, M. Chauchard, and the story goes that, when the latter was ill with influenza, M. Leygues declined the offer of the Ambassadorship at Rome, in order to be at his friend's bedside.

He was struck speechless a little time after when a journalist came and told him that M. Chauchard had left him an inheritance worth 12,000,000 francs.

Paris, Sept. 25.—President Millerand, in a message to the Senate and Chamber, condemns all domestic dissensions "in order that France may concentrate wholly on the development of her greatness and prosperity." He affirms that his election shows that the country is determined to pursue the policy which he has followed for the last eight months; and which it is his intention to further with more vigor and continuity.

New Cotton Bureau Plans To Aid Brazil

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 28 (by mail).—The Buenos Aires correspondent of the Associated Press writes: "Increased and improved cotton production in north-eastern Brazil, a great potential producing center, which is at present quite undeveloped is the object of a Cotton Service Bureau, established by Presidential decree.

"The bureau will investigate the properties of the soil and climatic conditions and will establish experimental stations to study the culture of cotton and preventive measures against pests and plant diseases. Planters in the cotton zone will be provided with machinery, implements and fertilisers at cost price and establishments will be installed for preparing cotton for market.

"A representative of a big English cotton combine is now in the northern states making a special study of conditions."

Smiles from the Mixed Court

An industrious youth known for his love of mechanics has been working as a helper on the construction of the new Telegraph Building on Avenue Edward 7.

The most interesting thing about the new building, so far as Wong is concerned, was a gasoline engine which propelled the lifts and other machinery necessary to the construction of a modern edifice.

"B'long putt-putt choo-choo," remarked Wong as he looked over the foreign device. "Me must wanchee make chop-chop."

And so he loitered about the place after work was done for the day. When everyone else had left he got into action. First he gathered an armful of shavings and then some sticks of wood. A match did the rest.

His efforts to convert a gas burner into a steam engine cost the municipality about Tael's 80 for damaged accessories.

But, luckily, he started the fire at the opposite end of the plant from that in which the gas tank was located.

The Mixed Court, thankful that Shanghai Settlement is not now sliding down the Whangpoo will consider Wong's case today.

WHAT WOMAN NEEDS

above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels might be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. But it must be of the right sort. Beecham's Pills are to be strongly recommended for Woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, flatulence, constipation and the lassitude and worries often incidental to her sex. Every woman may get nearer to Health and Happiness by using

"If you want to know," said J. J. Hill, "whether you are going to be a success or a failure in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple and infallible. Are you able to save money? If not, drop out. You will lose. You may not think it but you will lose as sure as you live. The seed of success is not in you."

OAK

Oak Flooring costs just about the same as a High-class Carpet.

A carpet, no matter how good the quality may be, wears out in a few years—an oak floor will last a life-time and longer. A well polished oak floor is infinitely superior in appearance to an ordinary carpet. Oak flooring is hygienic; it does not harbour dust and germs as does a carpet. Oak flooring costs from Tls. 25 to Tls. 40 per fong (100 sq. feet), according to the design selected.

WE SUPPLY
OAK FOR FLOORING, WAINSCOTING, PANELLING, ETC.
KILN-DRIED AND OF PRIME QUALITY

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. We prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

Trotsky Is Offered Supreme Command Of New Bolsheviki Army

ment has refused M. Kamenef permission to return.

London, Sept. 25.—While the Poles continue their pursuit of the Bolsheviki to the south of the river Pripet, the Riga Peace Conference yesterday got to grips with the realities of the situation.

PEOPLE PANIC STRICKEN

Vladivostok, Sept. 25.—All the endeavors of the Russian authorities and of various political parties to persuade the population of Habarovsk who fear that the Japanese evacuation of the town may provoke a second Nikolaievsk massacre to remain tranquil, have been of no avail and the panic there is continuing.

Several train-loads of workmen and refugees, despatched from Vladivostok to Soviet Russia, have been held up in Western Siberia owing to the disastrous condition of the railways, especially at Irkutsk and Omsk. The Verdhne-Udinsk Government has requested the Vladivostok Government not to despatch any further refugee trains.

The Minister of Finance, M. Zimmermann, handed in his resignation today, stating that the financial measures, which he had undertaken had worked out satisfactorily and that his work was now completed. The Council of Ministers requested Zimmermann to remain in office as they considered his services indispensable. He has therefore agreed to postpone his resignation.

NEW STATE PROTECTED

The Council of Ministers, considering the participation of a Vladivostok representative at the negotiations—which are being conducted by M. Yourin and the Verdhne-Udinsk delegation at Peking—desirable had appointed M. Agaroff to the post. It is stipulated, however, that these negotiations must not in any way tie up the future Far Eastern Government.

Vladivostok, Sept. 26.—M. Medvedieff, head of the Vladivostok Provisional Government, has addressed a letter to the President of the Council of Ministers on the subject of press criticism firstly of the relationship between representatives of the Vladivostok and Verdhne-Udinsk Governments in connection with the latter's negotiations with foreign countries and secondly of the interest taken by the Vladivostok Assembly in these negotiations.

CHARGES DENIED

M. Medvedeff states that the attitude of Vladivostok towards Verdhne-Udinsk, as defined in the Zemstvo's declaration of May 30 (announcing the decision of Democrats throughout Eastern Siberia to form a single united Far Eastern State) stands unaltered. No act has been passed, states M. Medvedieff, whereby Verdhne-Udinsk could consider itself empowered to negotiate with foreign countries on behalf of the Russian Far East.

M. Medvedieff adds that since the election of the Council of Ministers no independent negotiations have been carried on by the Vladivostok Goverment.

JAPAN REDUCES EXPENSE

Tokio, Sept. 25.—Speaking at the Conference of Prefectural Governors here today Lieut. General Baron Tanaka, Minister of War, announced that although the Japanese troops were evacuating Nikolaievsk this winter, on account of lack of necessary accommodation, and wintering at Alexandrovsk, it was intended that they should occupy Nikolaievsk next winter.

The Minister of War said that the cost of the Japanese army in Siberia had hitherto been 200,000,000 yen a year, but in consequence of the evacuation of Chita and Habarovsk this expenditure would henceforward be reduced to 50,000,000 yen.

Despatches from Seoul report that a mob of about a thousand Koreans on the night of September 23 wrecked the Post Office, police station, banks and other building at Gensan.

Two of the rioters are stated to have been killed and two wounded in subsequent clashes with the police who eventually succeeded in restoring order. One policeman was wounded.

LETTER TO JAPANESE

(Datta News Agency)

Verdhne-Udinsk, Sept. 23.—The following letter has been sent to Colonel Izome, Head of the Japanese Military Mission by Mr. Pelonkin, Chief of Staff of the People's Revolutionary Army in Verdhne-Udinsk:

"I have the honor to inform you that in a whole series of official letters previously delivered to Colonel Izome, representative of the Japanese Expeditionary Forces in Siberia, I drew his attention to Semenoff's repeated violations of the Treaty of Armistice, to which the representative of the Japanese Expeditionary Forces and the Government of the Far Eastern Republic are the signatories.

"This breach of the terms of armistice by Semenoff was usually carried out in the shape of invading our territory by whole detachments or in that of suddenly attacking us by small organised gangs.

"INSOLENT ONSETS"

"In addressing the Representative of the Japanese Expeditionary Forces, Colonel Izome, and in requesting him to bring pressure to bear upon the authors of these sudden and insolent onsets, I have been directed by a mere consideration that according to the treaty of armistice, the Japanese command has assumed the responsibility for the preservation peace in the Far East.

"Though in his explanations Colonel Izome, Representative of the Japanese Expeditionary Forces, did not repudiate the fact of violation of the treaty of armistice, his explanations, however, could neither represent an guarantee against further occurence of such events nor could they make us believe in the successful outcome of the peace mission of the Japanese Command in the future.

"BREACH OF ARMISTICE"

"The afore-mentioned cases of the breach of the armistice treaty and the fact of such breach being practised even now, with the Japanese command unwilling to liquidate these activities which alarm the troops, the public and the Government, causes the Commander-in-Chief of the Russian army to regard the peace treaty as being violated.

"In view of the above-mentioned I hope to receive from you explanation to this effect and beg you to inform me of the immediate steps you are going to take in connection with this effair, which the Commander-in-Chief of the Army has to submit to the Government of the Far Eastern Republic for final solution of this complicated question.

"(Signed) Pelenkin.
"Chief of Staff."

REDS IN RETREAT

(Japan Publicity Bureau)

Vladivostok, September 20.—A Moscow despatch reports on the authority of official Soviet information that the Red troops' retreat to new positions is still continuing in all directions. The Polish front has reached the line Suvalki-Prushany-Vladimir-Volynski.

A Riga despatch is responsible for the news that French reinforcement, including black troops, have arrived in Poland.

According to special despatches from Europe the line held by the Red army on or about September 10 extended from Grodno to a point 30 kilometers east of Bielostok, running from there along the eastern bank of the Bug to a point 60 kilometers north-east of Lemberg and farther south along the Dnieper. The Poles are slowly advancing. The Red troops, though attempting to launch counterattacks, are placed in a difficult position having lost some 100,000 killed, wounded and prisoners besides 80,000 (?) men that crossed over into German territory and were disarmed.

WRANGEL'S CONVENTION

A Tiflis despatch reports of a popular Assembly convened by Wrangel at Sebastopol and attended by representatives of the Wrangel Government as well as delegates from all political organisations, including the national socialists where the establishment of a new state has been discussed.

European despatches report that General Wrangel and Petlura have agreed upon joint operations. "Petlura's delegates allege his troops to number now 60,000.

News from Rumania state that preliminary negotiations between Poland and South Russia were opened on September 11.

MINERS TO DELAY WEEK BEFORE CALL OF STRIKE

practicable and would give the miners the benefits they wanted.

Mr. Bonar Law remarked that experts were of opinion that the Government proposal could be carried out in a couple of sittings in such a way as to give the miners an increase of wages in October.

COMPROMISE GRANTED

The Government delegates then left the room and on their return Mr. Smillie announced that the Miners' Executive had decided to recommend to the delegate conference that the notices should be suspended for one week and that the Executive was willing to meet the mine-owners tomorrow or, if tomorrow was impossible, on Monday.

The Premer concluded the sitting by saying that he was very glad that the miners were making this effort and earnestly hoped that it would be successful.

Firemen Battle For Lives As Maddened Throng Takes Flight

where a second jammed mass of bodies swiftly formed.

It was just after both upper and lower portions of the stairway between the two floors had become packed with fear maddened Chinese piled five and six deep and when the lower section of balustrade also had given way under the press while those above were fighting their way over the prostrate wedged in mass that Chief Office Pett and Fireman Gilhooley came up from the stairs below.

With the aid of Chinese firemen they began the work of extricating those farthest down, many of whom were unconscious, and at the same time, seeing the need of stopping the wild rush from above they began to fight their way upwards.

OFFICIALS ARE BITTEN

The clothing of both men was reduced to rags, their legs and arms were bitten in dozens of places and they were clawed and scratched by the frenzied Chinese. The skin from one of Gilhooley's arms from shoulder to elbow was scratched off in the fight that followed in which the two swiftly realised that their own lives as well as those of the people they were seeking to save were in danger. It was only after the most desperate struggle that the firemen finally fought their way over the mass of bodies to a point near the head of the stairs.

After this was done some progress was made in quelling the fears of the mass held fast in the exit from the theater and soon the work of removing the dead and injured was started by both members of the police and the fire department.

Many found to be merely unconscious received first aid in the street outside. For those more seriously hurt motor cars from a nearby garage were requisitioned and these with motors of the police and fire departments and with the police ambulance removed the injured to the Shantung Road hospital which was soon filled with victims of the panic. For a considerable length of time all traffic along Hoopeh Road was blocked.

The three dead, one a boy of 15 whose neck had been broken, had not been identified at a late hour. Seven of those said to have been fatally injured are: Wang Chi-wu, Sun Wen-yin, Cheng Ping-fu, Chin-fu, Li Ping-chi, Wu Chun-shin and Chwang Chen-sz.

The damage done to the theater, aside from the balustrade wrecked in the panic amounted only to loss of the film that burned.

HARDING DECLARES STAND ON TARIFF

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 28.—The Westminster Gazette publishes the report of in interesting interview with Senator Harding at Marion, Ohio. In the course of the interview, he declared that, while he was a Protectionist, he had no thought of imposing a tariff for the object of keeping out goods which must reach the United States if the European countries were to repay their loans.

He stated that, in his view, there could be no intercourse with Russia "until her Government had proved its stability by the recognition of international law."

NO FOREIGN MANDATES

The United States would not accept any foreign mandates, and did not aspire to any sponsorship involving her in the Eastern Hemisphere. America had always believed in the policy of the "open door" in China.

Ships of the United States must not be called upon to pay tolls in the Panama Canal, but there must be no discrimination in regard to ships of other nations.

Referring to Ireland, the Senator stated that there was a strong body of American opinion in favor of independence, but he recognised that the Irish question was no sense an official problem for America.

Finally, he declared that America's future immigration policy would be based on making citizens, instead of adding to the country's man-power in industry.

CHANGES MADE AT AMERICAN SCHOOL

Plant Bettered By Extensive Improvement For New Year's Work

So many have been the improvements in the American School buildings during the summer, that the mention of the name of the business manager, brought rousing cheers from the students at the first assembly. Mr. W. F. Beaman, business Manager, and Mrs. Beaman, home manager, both remained in Shanghai during the entire summer to superintend the renovating and improving of the school plant. Extensive repairs were made in several of the buildings, walls and floors were refinished, wood work and desks varnished and all black boards renewed.

The office was entirely remodeled, the entrance changed and a new gate built. Improvements were also made in the boys athletic field and on the girls play ground. The students were surprised as well as pleased and showed their appreciation in no doubtful terms.

The school is looking forward to another successful year. Most of last year's staff are back and six new members have been added, including the new principal and his wife. Another teacher is to arrive on the Empress of Russia October 8. One hundred and ninety students were enrolled the first week. This almost equals the total enrollment for the previous year.

Athletic work under the capable supervision of Prof. Thomas O. Burgess has already begun. Football and Basket Ball teams are being developed and will be ready for competition when the season opens.

Miss Frances W. Adams, of the department of vocal music is busy developing new voices to take the places in the Glee club, left vacant by last year's graduating class.

Millerand Speaks For Colony Aid And World Peace

Paris, Sept. 22 (delayed).—The newspapers, interpreting public opinion with regard to M. Millerand's election, express the keenest satisfaction, a feeling which, they state, was never more general or more sincere.

The President declares that the Treaty of Versailles must be strictly executed in complete agreement with the Allies. He says French democracy places its legitimate hopes in the progress of the League of Nations.

The French Colonies, he says, have repaid abundantly their debt to France, and she recognises this by associating them more closely with her political and moral life.

The President declares that one of the results—and that not the least desired—of the war should be the reduction of military service, consistent with the needs of national defense.

In conclusion he affirms that France has resumed the work of peace with fervent ardor, and is setting an example that gains the admiration of the whole world.

MALMEDY IS TO GO TO BELGIUM, LEAGUE DECIDES

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 20 (delayed).—The Council of the League of Nations concluded its session today, after disposing of a varied agenda.

In the first place, it adopted the report of Mr. Herbert Fisher, President of the Board of Education in the British Cabinet, on the subject of the Aland Islands in the Baltic, and accordingly decided to submit the question to further inquiry.

Then, acting on the report of M. Hymans, the Belgian Minister of Foreign Affairs, on the Polish-Lithuanian dispute, it made a recommendation tending to its prompt settlement, and had the satisfaction of seeing the representatives of the contending parties shake hands before parting.

Finally, it heard the report of the Brazilian delegate upon the plebiscite in the Malmedy district, and decided that, the polling having been carried out in all fairness, this district should irrevocably be incorporated in Belgian territory, in accordance with the Peace Treaty.

WIFE OF SIBERIA RED CROSS CHIEF DIES IN SHANGHAI

Operation At Sea Fails To Save Life Of Mrs. McDonald

Despite a major operation performed on shipboard in a desperate attempt to save her life Mrs. Lottie Brainerd McDonald, heroine of a war romance and a bride, died at a local hospital here early Sunday morning. She was the wife of Mr. Charles McDonald of Boston who was comptroller and western division manager for the Red Cross Siberian Commission.

Mrs. McDonald, who was 35 years of age, was taken ill three weeks ago at Vladivostok, where she was residing. Her husband decided that she should be brought to Shanghai for proper medical attention and the couple embarked on the U. S. Shipping Board vessel Eastern Trader.

The patient's condition became such in the course of the voyage that an operation was imperative.

The vessel arrived here on Sept. 23 and Mrs. McDonald was taken at once to a local hospital. Everything possible was done but it was impossible to save her life.

Mrs. McDonald, then Miss Lottie Brainerd, came out from Seattle to engage in Red Cross work. After the war ended she became engaged to and married Mr. McDonald. Their brief honeymoon was terminated by Sunday's tragedy.

A brief funeral service will be held here today and the body will be taken to Seattle for interment.

KIANGWAN RACING CROWDS AND EXCELLENCE OF CARD SURPRISE BELATED VISITOR

Delightful Afternoon Of "Sport Of Kings" Marks Closing Of 69th Meeting Of International Race Club At Out-Of-Town Track; Finishes Are Close

By Dudley Burrows

Great Jehosophat!

These Kiangwan race meetings are the Real McCoy!

In my vast ignorance—I hadn't been out to the picturesque suburban course until yesterday, you understand—I had rather imagined them to be something on the order of a hunt meet in the States or England.

A jolly little gathering of race-lovers, y'understand, and some jolly little brushes between jolly little ponies for jolly little wagers—something like that!

But, bless your heart, I walked into as pretty a racing establishment as one could hope to see, with everything quite according to Hoyle, and watched as interesting a card of events as one could hope for at Epsom, Longchamps or Belmont Park.

Why have I wasted so many afternoons on baseball, cricket, tennis and "Shanghai fever" while there, under Kiangwan skies, the "sport of kings" was awaiting my delectation? I dunno.

BIG CROWD OUT

The stands, by the time we reached the course, were fairly well crowded. Before we had been there half an hour they were filled. The Autumn Festival holiday perhaps accounted for part of the assemblage; but it was a joy to see the number of race-lovers of all nationalities buzzing around the betting rings once again. The gathering was picturesque, good-natured (even when the band played) and cosmopolitan—what more could one ask?

A few winning tips, perhaps. Ah, yes, but one must not expect everything to be perfect the first day. The splendid racing all but made up for one's inability to pick the best horse in each of the ten events—indeed, the losers did not seem to mind losing while the winners seemed quite overjoyed as they approached the cashiers' windows.

FINE HANDICAPPING

One of the first things to catch my notice—probably the thing which always gives an inveterate race-goer a thrill—was the excellence of the handicapping. I've not yet been informed as to how they arrange it, but in practically every event the bangtails were bunched for the greater part of the distance.

And there's no more beautiful and inspiring sight in the world than the thundering dash of thoroughbreds, mounted by gay-silked riders, down a home-stretch with eyelashes separating each one. There were many such spectacles yesterday afternoon.

DON'T ASK ME!

I am not going to pretend that I know anything professional or technical or authoritative about the respective merits of the China ponies or their riders. One looked as proficient as another to me. Of course, there were those in the stands who wooed the "Goddess of Dope," and knew to the fraction of a second just what each pony should do, and the distance by which he should win or lose—but I was not of them.

I simply watched a thrilling afternoon of sport, bet—and lost—my humble coppers, and enjoyed every minute of the time—except a few which were consumed in acquiring dust in my eyes and thorax on the way to and from the track.

As for the cruel, cold facts, you'll find them below, as follows:

PUBLIC SCHOOL SWIMMERS WIN IN DUAL MEET

Capture All Save 2 Events In Inter-School Test For Youngsters

The first annual inter-school aquatic meeting of 1920 was held last evening at the International Swimming Bath. Only the Public and the Cathedral Schools competed.

The Public School won most of the events, the Cathedral putting up a very plucky show against stronger opponents.

Siemsen (Public) was victor in both the one length (14 and over) and the hundred yards open, his fine swimming being a feature of the meeting.

Richards (Cath.) came in first in the one length for lads of 9 and over, and there was a hard struggle for second place between Sullivan (Cath.) and Anderson (Public). Little Sullivan's long plunge of 24' 4" was one of the best things of the evening.

Amongst those present were the Dean, Messrs. G. M. Billings and E. P. Graham-Barrow, Rev. Robins, and members of the teaching staff.

Much credit is due to Mr. C. D. Giauque, the promoter of the meeting. It is hoped that more schools will enter next year.

The various events and results were as follows:

One Length (14 and over): (1) Siemsen (Public); (2) Brown (Public); (3) Remedios (Public).

One Length (12 and 13): (1) Hickmott (Cath.); (2) Shekury (Public); (3) Nobiston (Public).

One Length Breast-Stroke (open): (1) Caccia; (2) Madar; (3) Barkus, all of the Public.

One Length (10 and 11): (1) MacArthur (Public); (2) Inch (Public); (3) Cain (Cath.).

Hundred Yards (open): (1) Siemsen; (2) Brown; (3) Symington, all of the Public.

One Length (9 and under): (1) Richards (Cath.); (2) Sullivan (Cath.); (3) Anderson (Public).

Long Plunge: (1) Shekury, 38' 9", (Public); (2) Remedios, 37' 1", (Public); (3) Donald, 36' 2", (Cath.).

220 Yards (open): (1) Siemsen (Public); (2) Brown (Public); (3) Barkus (Public).

Neat Dive: (1) Brown (Public); (2) Hickmott (Cath.); (3) Sullivan (Cath.).

One Length Relay, (five each): The Public School team.

TENNIS SINGLES FOR 1920 TITLE ARE COMMENCED

Results Not Yet Compiled; Second Round To Be Played Tomorrow

The first round of the 1920 singles championship, held under the auspices of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association, was played yesterday on courts located throughout the city and its environs, the choices of battlegrounds, up to the semi-final and final rounds, being up to the pairs as drawn and bracketed.

Up to a late hour last night Secretary A. H. George, of the Association, was unable to make an announcement of the results of yesterday's play, as many scores had failed, for one reason or another, to appear at his offices.

In connection with this tournament it is interesting to note why there are none of the Portuguese racket-wielders represented in the singles brackets.

As explained by E. E. Leitao, partner of Carnavarro in the winning of the Tennis League doubles title, it is because the P. S. A. has been so restricted in the matter of available courts that the members have been compelled to play doubles all season; hence are not sufficiently trained to singles play to warrant entry into the tourney.

The second round of the present tournament will be played tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting. The third round will be played on Saturday next following which the dates and locations for the semi-final and championship rounds will be announced by Secretary George.

AMERICA WINS OLYMPIAD; FINLAND SECOND; ENGLAND FOURTH IN FINAL FIGURES

Yankee Athletes Capture Nearly One-Third Of Total Recorded Points; Swimmers Especially Strong; Kohlmainen Deprecates Marathon Win

Antwerp, August 23.—With the holding of the 1,600-meter relay race and the cross-country run for individuals and teams, the track and field events of the seventh Olympiad were concluded in the Stadium here today. The finish found the American athletes the victors by a wide margin. The figures for the first four nations showed the United States at the top with 212 points; Finland, second, with 105; Sweden, third, with 95, and Great Britain, fourth, with 85.

In the course of the games American athletes broke three world's records and one Olympic record. They established world's records in the 400-meter hurdle race, the pole vault and the 400-meter relay race and an Olympic record in the running high jump. Had the weather been more propitious and the track in better condition during the latter part of the games there is every reason to believe that these remarkable performances, great as they were, would have been eclipsed by even greater feats. These record-breaking achievements are the greatest ever accomplished by one country since the Olympic Games were revived.

Only two races were run from the Olympic Stadium today, and in neither did the American runners show up as they did in other races during the last ten days.

The first of the two events, the 1,600 meter relay race, was a disappointment. The American team took only fourth place, behind England, South Africa and France. The team was composed, as yesterday, of G. S. Schiller, G. S. Bretnall, J. E. Meredith and F. J. Shea, none of whom raced with the ability shown by the winners yesterday in the 400-meter relay race. The English gained on every lap, passing the baton well, and made a hot race with the South Africans, who were the favorites. The Americans barely took fourth place from the Swedes, who lodged a protest on the ground of a mistake in distance-marking.

In the cross-country run of about ten kilometers, the Americans also failed to win a place. The great Finnish runner, Nurmi, who seems likely to be a worthy successor of Kolemainen, was first home, followed at a few seconds' interval by the Swede, Bachmann. The Finns also took third and sixth placed, the English taking fourth and fifth. The first American home was Pat Flynn in ninth place, and the next Fred Faller in fifteenth. The rest of the American runners came in far down the field.

GUILLEMOT INJURES ANKLE

Guillemot, the French runner, who had been looking forward to the race for revenge on Nurmi for his defeat in the 5,000-meter race, suffered a great disappointment. At three kilometers from home, when he was running easily with plenty of strength in reserve for the final sprint, he caught his foot in a hole and fell. When he rose he found that his ankle had suffered such damage that he could not continue.

Late last evening Hanne

FAMINE BENEFIT PLAY CANCELLED

Performance By Frawleys Not To Be Given Tonight At Lyceum Theater

Due to dimenities in arranging transportation for the Frawley Company to Tientsin where it is to play an engagement and to other obstacles the benefit performance that was to have been given this evening at the Lyceum theater for the fund being raised here by the Seven Provinces Famine Relief Association has been cancelled. The sum of $1,400 collected in advance sale when the benefit was announced on Saturday night is being returned.

It is understood that a benefit in support of the famine relief movement will be staged by the Frawley Company at Tientsin and another may be given here if a return engagement is played.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 26.—A mandate was issued this afternoon, instructing Provincial officials to render the greatest assistance to those who are taking part in famine relief. Several societies in Peking are organising relief, but co-ordination has not yet been secured, though the foreign committee is ready to co-operate in their efforts.

PINGTU AWAKENS TO NECESSITY OF MODERN METHODS

Electric Lighting Popular, Road Building Under Way, Schools Improved

(China Press Correspondence)

Pingtu, Shantung, September 22.—Pingtu is getting civilisation fast. Electric lights are being installed in the compounds of the Mission Station here and the whole city is getting interested. Instead of the old superstitions about the wires running over their places, all people are glad to have the wires run wherever we wish and take a great interest in the installation. None here except the few who have gone away to the ports, have ever seen an electric light, so their interest is keen. They have no idea how it works. As one man said who saw me insulating a joint in the wire.

"Oh! You wrap it tight so as to hold the fire in!"

Many people are asking that we install lights for them in their places of business and in their homes. Thus this old city is waking up to modern improvements of all kinds.

START ROAD BUILDING

Another improvement in this section is a big road built between this city and Lantsun, the station for this city on the Kiaochow railroad. It is a crude attempt at road building, but nevertheless it is an attempt, something that has never been done before. It is impassable in wet weather as they have simply thrown up the loose dirt in the center, yet in time it will make a nice road.

While other sections of this Province are facing an awful famine this section has good crops. If the rains will let up long enough to harvest the bean crop, there will be nothing for these people to worry about. They are worrying now because it has been raining most of the month of September. Not heavy rains, but mostly a drizzle; just enough to hinder planting the wheat crop for next year and to keep them from harvesting their beans.

ADVANCE IN EDUCATION

The Government schools here are all preparing to teach the National (Phonetic) Language. The official appointed a man to go to Tsingchowfu to learn it there, and on his return, held an institute for people from all sections of the county so they could return to their section and teach it in the schools. Great interest is being shown in all schools. In the Mission Schools, no one can graduate without first learning this. In the Effie Sears Memorial School they even use the Phonetic Scriptures in their daily worship.

The schools have all opened and are full of students. This is a banner year for the schools. Students are practically all bringing in all their expense money, so very few are having to be helped. With the price of grain soaring because of famine in other sections, it may get harder as the months go by for the people to "pass over the days," so that more difficulty will be had in bringing their expense money but at present they are able.

POWER ALCOHOL TO BE MADE IN INDIA

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 24.—Arrangements are being made for the experimental production of power alcohol on a considerable scale in India.

It is believed that it will be found that alcohol for fuel can be produced on a commercial basis in large quantities in various parts of the Empire. First of all, rice straw will be used, although other cheap raw materials are available.

New York, August 29 (by mail).—The Buenos Aires correspondent of the Associated Press writes: "Argentina has refused a British offer of £10,000,000 for the control of the Government's petroleum producing properties, maintaining its traditional attitude of guarding these deposits for the benefit of the nation. The offer was made by Mr. Frederick White, representing the Cowdray interests.

"While the government's petroleum fields at Comodoro Rivadavia are producing approximately 200,000 tons of petroleum annually, the fuel shortage in the nation has given rise to agitation for more extensive development. A despatch from London quotes Mr. White as explaining that President Irigoyen expressed himself anxious for increased production but said that he was unwilling to see the exploitation taken out of the hands of the Argentine people.

"Other offers for these fields have been refused in the past, including offers from North American promoters."

EARL OF CAVAN TAKES COMMAND AT ALDERSHOT

Other Appointments Made By British Government Are Officially Announced

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 25.—The following appointments are officially announced:

The Earl of Cavan succeeds Lord Rawlinson as Commander-in-Chief at Aldershot.

Major-General Sir Charles Harington becomes Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the Black Sea in succession to Sir George Milne.

Lieutenat-General Sir Philip Chetwode succeeds Sir Charles Harington as Deputy Chief of the Imperial Staff.

Lieutenant-General Sir Alexander Godfrey succeeds Sir Philip Chetwode as Military Secretary to the Secretary of State for War.

QUIT WIFE, NOT HER TABLE

'Desertion' Plea Wins Though Husband Lives In Home.

Newark, N. J., August 13.—A husband may board with his wife, eat at her table and still be charged with deserting her, according to an opinion just filed here by Special Master Child in which a degree of divorce is recommended for the wife.

Mrs. Andreas Blum of 48 Jacobs Street sued her husband for divorce on the ground of desertion. It was brought out in the testimony of the woman that her husband took a room in her home after he had previously deserted her and their three children. She said her husband ate his meals at the same table with her and the children, but only spoke to them when absolutely necessary. She said her husband was an inventor, and was able to "make everything but money to pay the rent and other expenses."

AIRSHIP IS SHOT DOWN IN FIGHT WITH TRIBESMEN

Refugees Train Loaded With Women And Babes Reaches Bagdad

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 25.—A War Office communique reports that there has been little change in the situation of the Lower Euphrates, while on the Middle Euphrates the 50th Brigade column is engaged in punitive operations and on the Upper Euphrates the construction of blockhouses and the repairing of the Bagdad—Palliujah Railway is making rapid progress.

One of the British airplanes, dropping stores on to the defenceless ship, Greenwich, which is aground in the Euphrates, was shot down and the occupants taken prisoner.

The first train of women and children from Kerind has arrived safely in Bagdad.

London, Sept. 24.—A Mesopotamia communique, issued tonight, shows that there has been a general improvement in the situation though Samawah is still beleaguered.

Five Lose Lives As Air Craft Crashes

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 25.—While an airplane was taking a cruise near Harrow at noon today, with six passengers, it crashed. Three men, including the pilot, and two women, were killed outright, and a girl was badly injured. The machine was smashed to pieces.

Osaka Gives Warm Welcome To Envoys Of Christian Faith

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Sept. 27.—The principal delegates to the World Sunday School Convention are visiting Osaka today as guests of the city. An Osaka Welcome Association was recently formed with the Governor, the Mayor and the President of the Chamber of Commerce as its officials.

The Municipality has provided the necessary funds to carry out the program for the entertainment of the visitors, which will include receptions, banquets, tours of inspection and sightseeing excursions. The visitors, who number 125, include Judge Maclaren, the Chairman of the Convention, and Dr. Pol, the chief delegate from England, who, according to the program will deliver a lecture at the Public Hall tonight.

America Wins Olympiad

Kolehmainen, winner of the Marathon, declared that, to some extent, he owed his victory to an accident which overtook Gitsham, the South African, whose shoes, it appears, gave way so that his feet were cut to pieces on the cobblestones and he had to abandon the race.

The Americans are piling up a fine score in the swimming events, and have made a good showing in the preliminaries of the boxing contests.

RE-CHECKING POINT SCORES

Antwerp, August 23 (Associated Press).—Scoring on a basis of twenty-two points to any event allowed by the International Athletic Federation, the American team piled up approximately one third of a possible aggregate total of 638 in the track and field events of the Olympic games. The Americans scored in all but four events, and were tied with Finland for first place championship honors, each nation having won nine firsts. The United States was far ahead in second places won, with twelve, and was second to Sweden in third, having scored nine to ten for Sweden. The Americans scored ten fourths, twice as many as their nearest rival. They outranked the other teams in taking fifth places but did not score quite as many sixths as Sweden.

There will be considerable rechecking of figures in the athletic events before they can be considered official. The Belgian press today put out a list that was extremely full of errors which they called official. All the records were gone over tonight and rechecked unofficially.

The final official figures for the Decathlon place the men as follows: Loveland, Norway, 6804.355; Hamilton, United States, 6770.86; Ohlsson, Sweden, 6579.305; Halme, Sweden, 6533.15; Nicksson, Sweden, 6434.53; Wicheim, Finland, 6406.46.

ATHLETES LEAVING ANTWERP

The track and field events just closed, were notable in the fact that only three athletes were able to win two first places. These were Frigerio, the Italian, walker who won the 3,000 and 10,000 meter walking events; A. G. Hill, the English middle distance runner, who won the 800 and 1,500 meter runs, and Nurmi, the Finn, who was first in the 10,000 meter run and in the cross-country race today, which it is admitted was considerably short of the advertised 10 kilometers.

SWIMMING RECORDS FALL

Several Olympic swimming records were smashed today. Three Americans—Mrs. Frances Schroth of San Francisco, Irene Guest of Philadelphia and Ethelda Bleibtrey Women's Swimming Association—chalked up new records in winning their heats in the 100-meter free-style swim. Duke Kahanamoku repeated his record-breaking performance of yesterday by covering 100 meters, free style, in 1:01 2-5. Pua Kealoha of Honolulu tied the Olympic record when winning his heat in the same event.

This makes a total of eight Olympic swimming records broken by American entries in two days, one world's record bettered and two Olympic records equaled.

In the events today J. Howell, San Francisco, won his heat in the 400 meters, breast stroke in 6:55. In the 100 meters, free style, Kahanamoku and W. W. Harris, Honolulu, were first and second, respectively. George Vernot, the Canadian, failed to qualify. Norman Ross, Illinois A. C., was second to Kealoha in his heat in that event.

In the 100-meter free-style swim for women, Mrs. Schroth won the first heat in 1:18. Charlotte Boyle, Women's Swimming Association, finished second. Irene Guest won the second heat in 1:18 4-5. Ethelda Bleibtrey won the third heat in 1:14 2-5. (The previous record was 1:19 4-5).

KEALOHA TAKES FINAL

Warren Kealoha, Honolulu won the final honors in the 100-meter back stroke, with his teammate, R. Kegeris, Los Angeles, second, and the Belgian Blitz, third. The time was 1:15 1-5, a new Olympic record. The Olympic record was 1:20 4-5 made by J. J. Hebner in 1912. Perry McGillivray, Illinois A. C., and Harold Kruger, Honolulu, finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

Norman Ross, Illinois A. C., and F. K. Kahele, U. S. Navy, qualified in their heats in the 1,500-meter free-style swim. Ross winning his heat and Kahele finishing second to Beaurepaire of Australia.

SUMMER AND THE BABY.

Hot Weather Perils And How To Avert Them

The summer months are the most dangerous to infants and young children. Cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly during the hot season that often the little one is beyond aid almost before the parents realise he is ill. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. Read what Mrs. W. S. Bassam, of Kingston, Ontario, says about them.

"I began using Baby's Own Tablets when my little girl was about three months old," Mrs. Bassam writes. "At that time the child had indigestion badly. She was vomiting and had diarrhoea constantly. Food did her no good and she was very thin. "I did not find any medicine to help until we tried Baby's Own Tablets; then the vomiting and diarrhoea ceased and she began to improve almost at once. Since then whenever her stomach is out of order we give her the Tablets and the result is always all that we desire. They are the very best medicine I have ever used for a child."

Baby's Own Tablets can be had of druggists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road Shanghai.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEPPA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. FESLER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARKER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Health, Beauty And The Home

The Home Repair Day

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

TO paraphrase a popular slogan: "Do you have a little repair day in your home?" There comes at this period of Summer the need of a general overhauling—or what our fathers would have called a "tinkering"—around the house.

Perhaps some of us remember the happy days when it was possible to secure a plumber or a carpenter or a "handy man" for less than our present annual savings! Alas, these days are no more, and added to the higher prices of labor is a shortage so stringent that it is almost impossible to secure it at any price.

The same situation is general throughout the country and forces me to the conclusion that all of us will have to do our own "tinkering" for some time to come. But why not? Think of the money we will save and the experience we will receive. Doesn't every woman long to hold down a real man's job? Hasn't she always said she could hammer a nail as straight as any one and wished to be a boy so that she could do some "real work" in the world?

This is the great opportunity for every woman to practise mechanical arts by having a repair day in the home. Is there a single home which does not have screens to put up, linoleum to lay, doors to plane, washers to put on and painting of all kinds needed at the advent of warm weather? Let Mrs. Housekeeper don her "womanalls" and "go to it," as the boys say.

But first she needs the right tools. And while the list of these may differ, I believe the following would fulfill all general needs:

Medium-weight hammer, ten-inch screw driver, handy soldering outfit, force pump, three-foot folding rule, scissors, tack puller, small hand saw, assorted size washers, oil can, assorted tacks and nails and a monkey or pipe wrench.

With this outfit she should be able to face all the least serious of household ills. Of course, brushes and a glass cutter and a putty knife and a small plane would also be useful.

I think the manufacturer who would put out a special box of tools for the housewife in some sort of convenient carrying box would have a quick and wide seller. At present it seems to me most women buy ten-cent store tools only because they have not a better selection offered them. The one or two elaborate outfits now on the market are more "basket and outfit" than tools.

Before I start any kind of repair day I would make a list of exactly what had to be done and the supplies needed for each special task. Preferably I would start at the top of the house and work down to save steps and tracking. I would also wear the most sensible clothing, bloomers or overalls, if the work was high or involving the use of a stepladder.

Who said a woman couldn't drive a nail as straight as a man or operate a piece of mechanism as efficiently as that member of the human race who is not ashamed to show that he is two-legged? The old idea that every girl baby is born with an egg beater and a package of needles is all bosh, stuff and nonsense.

This movement against the high price of clothing is gaining headway, as clearly seen by the increased donning of overalls. Would it not be equally popular for the great middle class union of consumers to refuse to pay the present exorbitant prices of repair and do the work themselves? It is impossible for the average family in the class of the clerk, the minister, the college professor to pay such a proportion of their salary for the jobs which keep their house mended and painted and, as the old people used to say, "ship-shape."

Why not let father do it? I hear some readers say. Why expect the housekeeper to add this burden to her already crowded day? I will answer, for several reasons. In the first place, if father can find time after his day's work is done, well and good. But I have long stood against father "doing chores" in addition to his usual business routine, unless said chores are a relaxation! Now, they are a rest to some men; on the other hand, it is piling Ossian upon Pelion to add an artisan's labors to the weary shoulders of many professional men.

On the contrary, I think that such small mechanical tasks would present a welcome novelty to the typical housewife who is constantly complaining of the monotony of her cooking and cleaning and mending. Also it is the housewife or mother who can direct the effort of her growing children in this line, not only so that they shall help her, but so that the work shall be a means of training in itself to them in their plastic years.

I am proud that I have a young neighbor who has entirely papered a large living room all by her own efforts, and done it so well, indeed, that any professional might well be proud of the work. She tells me she enjoyed it, and probably it adds to her enjoyment that she had the work done exactly when she wanted to and also has a snug sum saved in her pocket.

There are books a-plenty on how to do this or that. The "home carpenter," the manual for the handy man and others of that ilk, can be secured in paper covers for fifty cents or so. And in these days of well-illustrated magazines any woman can take a complete correspondence course from the diagrams and helpful practical matter in their pages.

Mother's repair day in the home will cut the cost of living, the cost of replacement, the cost of labor; it will also bring some pleasure into the greater order it produces as well as a delight in the work itself, not only to those women who have always liked "men's work," but to practically every woman who takes pleasure in her home, and who does not mind taking on new work in order to see her home and its furnishings at their best.

A Beautiful Neck

By Lina Cavalieri,
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

HAVE you ever met any woman who could truthfully say she doesn't care whether she has a pretty neck or not? How could she? No woman can be considered really beautiful who was not born with a pretty neck. It can often be acquired, it is true, but it is a very decided advantage to be born with a pretty neck, just as it is to be born with even, regular features, a beautiful figure or lovely hair.

It is one of the compensations of being overplump that the woman of too ample lines has a beautiful throat and arms. While the thin woman, whose features are well defined and who is afflicted with no double chin has, as a rule, a scrawny neck and whip-like arms. Her figure is more elegant because it is not blanketed by superfluous layers of flesh, but this advantage is more than offset by the bug-bear of an ugly, bony neck.

To be beautiful, the neck must be neither too long nor too short, too fat nor too lean. It must be shapely; that is, evenly developed. The skin must be soft and white.

The length of the neck is one of the fixed quantities of Nature. One cannot change it, but it is easy enough to learn the lesson of illusion from the stage, and try to make it seem longer or shorter than it is. The best aid to this is the poise of the head. The woman whose chin is carried well up, whose poise of the head is habitually high, gives the impression that her neck is at least an inch longer than it is. Also, the manner of trimming her high-neck gown and the line at which the low-cut gown is finished determine whether the neck looks longer than it is or shorter.

If the neck is short, the collar should be of solid colors, or be trimmed with perpendicular lines. The low-necked gown should be cut lower than that of the woman with the long neck, for the beauty of the neck is more dependent upon its surroundings for its effect than is any other part of the body.

On the other hand, it is well to know that if there is a wide sweep of the shoulders the long line from the point of the shoulder to the chin will lend itself to the neck and make the neck seem longer than it would if the gown were merely one of the collarless sort with a line of cloth defining where the neck actually begins.

If the neck is long the problem is an easier one, especially just now when high collars for the neck are a special vogue. Even an ostrich's neck could be so wrapped about with laces, with collars and ties of a contrasting color, to cut down its apparent length, that it would be far less conspicuous than if unadorned. I should say it could be made to look almost a foot shorter.

The human neck can be dressed to make a proportionate change of appearance. The extremely low decolletage is less becoming to the woman with the long neck. If she must adopt it, or her dressmaker persuades her that she must, she should wear her jewels or a band of ribbon about her neck to make it seem shorter. The drooping Madonna poise of the head may be becomingly affected by the woman with the long neck, especially when sitting for her photographs.

The neck, as I have before said, must be neither too fat nor too lean. To correct either too much or too little flesh upon the neck we must summon the aid of that faithful servitor to beauty—massage. On the beautiful neck the flesh is evenly distributed. The neck should be, save for the two parallel lines about an inch apart, which encircle the neck and are seen on the necks even of babes, perfectly smooth. If the flesh be uneven, persistent, skilful and gentle massage should redistribute the disproportionate bulk of flesh.

Sometimes the neck is flat in front and displays thick layers of fat at the sides and back. This can be corrected by patient and careful massage. The front of the neck can easily be made plumper by massage. Olive oil or a pure cold cream should be freely rubbed into the skin by the first three fingers of each hand, massaging first on the right side of the neck with the right hand, then on the left with the left hand, then with both hands together. The motion should be a rotary one. This is always the best movement for rebuilding tissue because it induces circulation, which feeds the starved, atrophied portions and tones up the skin.

Fruit Ice, Frappe and Sherbet Recipes

By Mary Lee Swann, The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Lemon Ice.

BOIL 1 quart water and 2 cups sugar 7 or 8 minutes. Add ¾ cup strained lemon juice, cool, strain again if necessary, and freeze, using three parts ice to one part salt.

Orange Ice.

BOIL 1 quart water and 2 cups sugar 7 or 8 minutes. Add 2 cups orange juice, the juice of 1 lemon and a little grated orange rind. Care should be taken to remove only the outside (the thin yellow coating) from the rind. Cool and freeze, using three parts ice to one part salt.

Raspberry Ice.

SPRINKLE with 1 cup sugar 1 quart raspberries which have been picked over and rinsed gently with cold water. Cover and let stand for 2 or 3 hours. Mash and strain, add 1 cup water and a little lemon juice and freeze. A little lemon juice improves all fruit ices, since it seems to develop the flavor of the other fruit.

Pear and Pineapple Ice.

PRESS 1 can pears through sieve and add 1 can grated pineapple pressed through sieve or potato ricer. The ice is more delicate if only the juice of the pineapple is used. Add juice of 1 or 2 lemons. Boil 2 cups water with 2½ cups sugar 5 minutes. Cool and add to fruit. Freeze.

Peach Ice.

PRESS ripe peaches through sieve and to 1 quart of peach pulp add the juice of 1 lemon and 1 orange. Boil 1½ cups sugar with ½ cup water 2 or 3 minutes, cool and add to fruit. Freeze as usual.

Currant Ice.

PICK over, stem and wash 1 quart ripe red currants. Mash, add 2 cups hot water and bring slowly to boiling point. Then boil gently until soft. Strain, add 2 cups sugar and stir until sugar melts. Cool and freeze.

Canned Pineapple Sherbet.

BRING 3 cups water and 1 cup sugar to boiling point. Add to ½ teaspoon gelatine which has been soaked in 1 tablespoon cold water 5 minutes or longer. Cool and add 2 well-beaten egg whites. Then add 1¼ cups grated canned pineapple and the juice of 1 lemon. Freeze as usual.

Fresh Mint Frappe.

PICK over and wash a small handful of mint leaves. Add to 4 cups water and 2 cups sugar and boil 8 minutes. Strain and add 1½ teaspoons gelatine soaked in 2 tablespoons cold water. Cool and add ½ cup lemon juice and freeze to a mush, using equal parts ice and salt. If a clear green color is desired use vegetable coloring. A very small amount of the coloring is necessary to color any amount of frappe.

Canned Apricot Ice.

PRESS 1 can apricots through sieve or potato ricer. Dissolve 2 cups sugar in 1 quart boiling water, cool and add to the apricots. The juice of 1 or 2 lemons will improve the ice. Freeze in 3 parts ice and 1 part salt.

Pineapple Frappe.

BOIL 1 cup sugar with 2 cups water 15 minutes. Add 1 can shredded pineapple, ½ cup lemon juice and 2 cups cold water. Strain and freeze to a mush, using equal parts ice and salt.

Cranberry Frappe.

PICK over, wash and mash 1 quart ripe cranberries. Boil them with 2 cups water for 10 minutes. Strain and add 2½ cups sugar. Add the juice of 2 lemons and, if desired, ½ cup of orange juice. Freeze to a mush with equal parts of ice and salt.

Rhubarb Sherbet.

SOAK 1½ teaspoons gelatine in ½ cup cold water 10 minutes. Add to rhubarb prepared as follows: Wash 2 pounds rhubarb cut in small pieces. Add 2½ cups sugar, 2 cups water and a little finely chopped Canton ginger. Bake slowly until pink in a covered baking dish. After gelatine is added strain, cool and add 1½ tablespoons lemon juice. Freeze.

Beauty Advice

I AM a blonde and would be pretty but for my eyebrows and eyelashes, which are too light. How can I improve them? —GLADYS F.

Your eyebrows and lashes can be darkened by massaging them daily with lanolin, which stimulates their growth. If that does not darken them quickly enough then you can massage them with the following mixture, exercising particular care all the while that none of it enters the eye itself:

Sulphate of quinine....10 grains
Oil of sweet almonds.. 2 ounces

MY hands are extremely thin because of constant piano practice. How can I plumpen them?—J. H.

The treatment essential to plumpen the hands involves chiefly a gentle massage of them every night with almond oil or lanoline. Olive oil, also, helps to put on the needed flesh. These oils will nourish the skin and the underlying tissues in a remarkably short time, provided you give your hands faithful attention and are sure that the unguents are well rubbed in.

HOW can I bring back the color to my hair? It was light brown until I used a wash which turned the bottom all gold, but left the roots black.—DOROTHY L.

There is but one consolation left for you. Now that the mischief is done you must simply wait until the natural color is restored of itself. This will take some time, but if the hair follicles are uninjured you may expect the restoration of its color within from three to six months at least. To hasten the process massage the scalp daily with a very small amount of olive oil.

KINDLY tell me how to lengthen my eyelashes. They are very short and none of the many remedies I have tried will make them grow.—JUNE.

It is only by the exercise of the most faithful attention and daily care that the eyelashes will show any signs of improvement. Massage the lids every day with a little lanolin. If they do not begin to grow, apply this stimulating tonic instead, taking particular pains that none of it gets into your eyes:

Olive oil .....1 ounce
Tincture of cantharides..½ dram
Oil of nutmeg.....¼ ounce
Oil of rosemary.....¼ ounce

Love, Courtship and Marriage Problems

Solved by Leonore Carfax

MY husband was a most considerate lover. He seemed to know instinctively those little attentions which a woman's nature craves. Since we are married these have all dropped from him like a cloak. He lets me walk on the outside of the pavement. He never thinks of assisting me on with my coat unless I ask him to. He opens a door and goes in and lets me follow as I choose. I am so sensitive to this change in his manner toward me that I sometimes wonder whether he cares for me any longer. Do you think this is a sign he does not?—O. O.

It is quite desirable that husbands should retain the gallantry of lovers, but, alas, few of them do. Perhaps it is because men prize those little attentions so little themselves that they feel they can afford to drop them in view of the more substantial favors which their position as husband confers. It is necessary to look at these more or less superficial attentions through a man's eyes and realize that often the more sincerely a man cares for a woman the less he thinks of demonstrating it by frills and fancies and conventionalities.

MY husband objects to my smoking cigarettes. All the women in my set do, and I have become so used to smoking that I cannot do without it in the home. Do you see any good reason why women should not smoke as well as men?—C. G.

The majority of such questions have to be decided along the lines of custom and instinctive feeling. A thing need not be inherently wrong, and yet it may so violate another's sense of fitness that it has the same disastrous effect. It is much easier for me to understand why it is revolting to your husband to see you smoke than it is to demonstrate why nicotine belongs to the masculine rather than the feminine gender. The very fact that this smoking is becoming so indispensable to you is a warning in itself for you to give it up. Moreover, I consider it imperative, even to the point of personal sacrifice, for a wife to live up to her husband's standard of refinement in women.

MY husband was a widower before I married him, and now he insists upon my doing everything the way his first wife did. Don't you think a man should allow his wife to carry out her own ideas in the home? —MILFORD.

I certainly do. It would be almost as unreasonable for you to insist upon your husband's running his business the way your father did his. You are perfectly in the right, but unfortunately to be right is not enough when you are married. You must be able to convince the other member of the partnership that you are right. I know of no better way to do this than to listen patiently while your husband extols his late wife's ways and then work out such an obvious improvement on her methods that he will be forced to acknowledge the improvement. A wife sometimes has to compete with the dead as well as the living.

I HAVE entire confidence in my husband and do not in the least fear his loyalty to me, but I consider that a wife has a perfect right to open her husband's mail. My exercising this right has been, however, a constant source of friction in our domestic life. My husband says he is quite willing to tell me all about his affairs, but that, as a matter of principle, he resents my opening his letters as an intrusion upon his personal rights. Do you not think that a husband and wife should share everything in common? Is not being so particular about one's personal rights contrary to the true spirit of marriage?—L. L.

No; I surely agree with your husband's stand in the matter. Your entire attitude toward marriage seems wrong. It looks as if you fear you will lose your footing if you do not insist upon certain "rights" which you have arbitrarily chosen. As a matter of fact, you have chosen the very course which will lead to disaster. The very act of marrying requires the surrender of a great many individual rights which are enough of a strain as it is. Then why should you insist upon straining the relationship still further? You had better stop thinking so much about your rights and think a little more about your duties. Marriage never entitles either party to take a strangle hold on everything that belongs to the other.

How to Take Care of Fish

WHEN fish comes from the market it should be removed from the paper in which it is wrapped and placed on a plate before it is put into the refrigerator. If it is left in the paper the juices are absorbed by the paper, says Lucile Stimson Harvey, author of "Food Facts for the Home-Maker."

Before it is used care should be taken to see that all the scales are removed. These can be scraped off with the back of a knife, beginning at the tail. The fish should also be carefully washed by wiping it with a clean piece of cheesecloth wrung out from slightly salted water. The fish should not be allowed to stand in water.

Like all protein food, fish becomes tough and leathery if it is subjected to high temperature in cooking. If it is boiled the water must be boiling vigorously before the piece of fish is dropped in. This sears the outside of the fish and helps to prevent the loss of juices. A tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice added to the water will also help in the searing process.

Boiling at best is a wasteful way of cooking fish, as much of the juices of the fish are lost in the water. It should be used only when the piece of fish to be cooked is a compact one, like a solid chunk of salmon or halibut.

If the fish is baked, the oven should not be hot enough to dry out the fish. White fish that are lacking in fat, such as cod and haddock, are improved on baking by the addition of salt pork.

If the fish is split, or is a small one, broiling is an economical way of cooking it.

Owing to adverse comment caused by a recent advertisement inserted in this paper by G. J. Gorman, the directors of the Company desire to state that the gentleman named was one of the original incorporators of the Company, was elected a director of the Company, attended all meetings of the Board as a director, and signed his name to receipts and documents as a director. The printed advertisement was the first and only intimation the Company had of the gentleman's intention to resign, and the advertisement erroneously intimates that his name was used without his knowledge or consent. Mr. Loh Tsung-pao of Ningpo-Shaohsing S. N. Co. has been elected to take the place of Mr. Gorman on the Board.

RED ARMY WORN, RAGGED, STARVED

German Correspondent Finds Budenny's Conquering Troops A Disreputable Crowd

Chicago, August 3.—The Chicago Tribune will publish tomorrow a despatch from Eugene Szattamary, a German journalist, who is representing the Tribune on the East Prussian frontier, giving an account of a visit to the Russian army now invading Poland.

Herr Szattamary writes from Grajevo, a town of 4,000 population, about twenty-five miles southwest of Augustown, just over the East Prussian frontier in the Polish Republic. His despatch follows:

"Grajevo, Poland, August 3.—Today we crossed the East Prussian frontier to Grajevo, where we found three regiments of Russian cavalry and frontline troops. Now that I have seen both sides, my wonder is increasing how the Russians could have won the war.

"Before going across the line I was told by Lithuanian guards that the Russians were an army of beggars, but I did not expect to find Budenny's legendary knights, who have blazed the way from the Crimea to Kiev and from Kiev to Grodno, such a ragged, starved, disreputable-looking crowd as they are.

"One of the cavalrymen was dressed in mufti, while his companion was in a uniform. I saw round hats, bear-skin hats (the temperature is about 80 Farhenheit), derbies and slouch hats, sport clothes, fur coats and those peculiar caps that the Polish Jews wear.

"I saw one British uniform and seven Polish hats and uniforms on the first few Russians that I met. Surely it was a nondescript lot, but they had one thing in common—the red star insignia of the Red Army, which each wore on his blouse or cap.

"The men were dirty and ragged and the small Cossack horses were not groomed, but were caked with the mud of a thousand miles. I saw 300 horses and their riders, but not a one of them was dressed or fitted according to the standard of either side of the war in France. Only rifles and ammunition were in plenty and one Cossack showed me a Japanese carbine and bullets, and even a knapsack, proud souvenir of a Bolshevist raid in Siberia.

"An iron discipline everywhere prevailed. The officers were well dressed in uniforms. With them was a civilian commissar who is really superior to the officers and watches them. When the Russians pulled out of Grajevo they requisitioned supplies, but they paid in Soviet rubles and did not. Only one car of wool was broken plunder or confiscate anything into.

"On looking over the Russian Army I cannot understand what has been urging them from victory to victory throughout the last two years. Perhaps it is their discipline. Perhaps it is fear of starvation if they do not win. I know the men feel they have to conquer new territory in order to obtain food because there is none at home. That is why I am doubtful if the army will quit conquering when an armistice is signed and word is given to return to Russia."

Belgian Beauties Chat With Marshal Foch At Spa

Relaxing, after the strenuous sessions of the Allied-German conference at Spa, Belgium, Marshal Foch is greeted by three Belgian beauties, who besiege him with requests for his autograph. The famous soldier evidently enjoys the respite from conference labors.

Woman Of 49 Regains Beauty Of 25 By Surgery, But Cannot Smile

Paris, Aug. 3.—Within the last five days a Parisian women, 49 years old, has recovered the beauty she had when she was 25. No wrinkles mar her face, and the contour of her features are as round as twenty years ago.

The disadvantage is that she must suppress her sense of humor and emotions and refrain from smiles, frowns and crying.

The wizard who worked the miracle was a surgeon with a knife.

"I'm just crazy with joy about it all," the rejuvenated woman exclaimed to an interviewer. "But I daren't smile. That would start the wrinkles all over again. Would never have needed an operation if I hadn't gone around laughing and crying over nothing all my life."

The operation was simple enough. It amounts to this, that small incisions are made behind the ears and on the scalp, and the skin is stretched much in the same way as one stretches a carpet.

The only signs of the operation are tiny sutures in the skin behind the ears, hidden by the hair. The cure is expected to last eight or ten years, provided, always, that sufficient care is taken not to smile and cry too much. After that the patient may expect to grow old again, and can then allow herself the luxury of laughter. But by then she will be nearly 59, and laughter may seem preferable to the complexion of 25.

California And The Japanese

THE people of California have at last succeeded in making the question of Japanese immigration a definite issue in the presidential campaign. Gov. Cox declared in a speech at San Francisco that "The Government will co-operate in the working out of a plan whereby Orientals will be excluded from those states which do not wish them to acquire land there." In a speech at Oakland he said that California "should be allowed her own way in the settlement of her internal affairs."

Gov. Harding, addressing a delegation from California declared that "Japan's interest in removing all sources of irritation is equal to if not greater than ours, and all Americans regard her people as wise enough to continue to assist in solving the immigration problem."

Meantime the Attorney General of California is filing suits seeking to escheat lands held in the names of trustees for American-born Japanese children on the ground that this is done to evade the alien land law, this action was taken under a statute enacted in 1913, but evoked on only two previous occasions, once against a Japanese and once against a Chinese. It is believed, says one despatch, the present instance is due to the organised campaign to accentuate the alleged Japanese menace, and exploit all phases of the immigration question for the purpose of securing the adoption of the initiative measure designed to prevent native-born Japanese from holding land in California, at the November election.

The opinion of able lawyers is that this provision of the initiative measure is unconstitutional, and that it has been adopted as a test case to be instituted and carried to the Supreme Court of the United States.

At the same time the Democratic and Republican state conventions of California have demanded abrogation of the so-called "Gentlemen's agreement" of 1911, under which some 19 000 Japanese have settled in California. Governor Stephens, speaking before the delegates assembled for the Republican State Convention, said that the Republican party stands for the principle of no further immigration of aliens of whom it is impossible to make citizens. "The so-called Gentlemen's Agreement and the Treaty with Japan of 1911 must be superceded by a new treaty which will define the right of the United States to say who shall and who shall not come into the country."

Samuel Shortridge, a candidate for the State Senate; said that the Republican party, stands for the stoppage of all Asiatic immigration, including that from Japan, and proposes the securing of an international understanding that will lock the door of the Pacific Coast to "this undesirable race."

Senator Phelan, who is a candidate for re-election on the Democratic ticket, sent a message to the Democratic State Convention that, inasmuch as the Democratic National Platform carries no pledge to the effect, he will support any political party promising to support remedial State legislation for those States affected by the Japanese menace.

It is thus plain that the people of California both democratic and republican are determined to lock their doors against undesirable immigrants—meaning those who as Benjamin Ide Wheeler, President of the University of California, puts it, cannot, "owing to their ethnologic trend as orientals be assimilated by the white race." And this determination on the part of the people of California cannot be altered. We are therefore confronted by a crises that is more acute than ever before. Conferences are proceeding in Washington but the difficulties in the way of a settlement that will please both Japan and the people of California are obvious.

Viscount Kaneko, President of the American-Japan Society, a graduate of Harvard University, long recognised as one of America's staunchest friends in Japan, is quoted as saying:

"Why doesn't the state of California, asked the Viscount, allow the matter to be taken up in a diplomatic way? The Japanese in California are a great deal like other people and do not want to stay in California to be hissed at on the streets. If our nation is approached in a reasonable way it is quite positive that a peaceful arrangement could be made.

"Instead, without warning, the State of California propose this measure, which, to put it mildly, is in violation of international customs between nations. There are those in the United States who would as they say there pass the buck to California by saying that the sentiment of California is not the sentiment of the great American nation. But the point here is that, viewed internationally, the action of California is the action of the Government at Washington.

"I am the ardent friend of America, and have never lost an opportunity to say so. Past differences between the two nations have been smoothed over. This intention to use the referendum will be the final action, however. It will be the death knell to the best feeling between the two nations. For this action will touch on the sensitiveness of every citizen, big or little, of Japan. I do not predict war as a result. But I must say, as America's friend, today, that I, for one, will feel that the good America has done us in the past, her friendship and her many acts that we have appreciated will be wiped out in a single day, if on that day this anti-Japanese bill is passed."

Viscount Kaneko speaks of course as the friend of the United States and as such his views must command respect, but we must also consider that he speaks even more as the friend of Japan. And when he asks why the people of California do not let the matter be settled by the diplomats of Tokio and Washington, he must be reminded that the people of California are today confronted by the results of previous diplomatic settlements. In the end it will turn out that if the people of California do not want the Japanese in their midst the Japanese will have to go at whatever cost to the good relations that have prevailed in the past.

LINES FROM LETTERS

Dear Bertie—Let me call your considerable attention to the fact that even plus-nice girls of the bobbed-hair-jumper brand are almost bitterly feminine. Diana is quite utterly attractive. She goes really awfully well with my taste in ties. Really, I never knew her to clash with my summer scheme. She is also pretty and a good fellow. We togethered a lot.

But you never know you know, until you know you know, just what a girl will do. Once a female always a female, as Kipling says—or was it Domino? Well, dear old thing, we went off to where the lights go mushy and Douglas fair bunks away with enthusiasm. We started to talk about Ireland; she said she knew I was a jolly Irish boy because I was so jolly green. Really smart, but I told her not to continue in such remarks or the writer of 'Sunday Snap Shots' would start a correspondence about "Should women be abolished?" and just now the columns are already full of opium and other stuff that ends in hot air.

Well the dear thing tead with me; she supped with me; she theatered with me; and when I asked her to marry me, she simply played with me, so my dear old thing of a Bertie I'm absolutely through with all females. Yours disillusioned.

He had been married about a year, and had taken to spending his evenings up West with the boys. One night his conscience worried him, and he thought he would phone his wife, and get her to come up and meet him and have dinner with him. So he rang her up. "Hello kid," he began. "Get into some glad rags and come up and meet me. We'll have a good dinner, and then have a car out. We'll have a real jazz time. What about it?"

"I'll be delighted, Jack, but why not come and fetch me?" she asked, "There's nobody about."

As the young husband's name is Tom he spends his evenings at home now. And his wife wears a queer smile when he isn't looking at her.

'New Life' Explained By Dr. Voronoff's Wife

Mrs. Voronoff Repudiates For Him Sensational Interviews About Rejuvenation From Gland Grafting And Tells What Experiments Really Are

By Van Buren Thorne, M. D.

Frankly skeptical and more or less bewildered by the fantastically extravagant and conflicting cabled reports from Paris concerning the results obtained by Dr. Serge Voronoff, the surgeon said to have rejuvenated several old Frenchmen by grafting upon them sex glands obtained from the higher primates, I sought an interview with him to learn the facts after he came to New York recently.

I know that some one had treated the truth with scant courtesy, for on Oct. 12, 1919, the Paris correspondent of The New York Times cabled that Dr. Voronoff had informed him that he had not operated on human beings, but that he intended to do so. However, on Oct. 14, 1919, or two days later, there appeared in this country a cable despatch, alleged to have been written by Dr. Voronoff himself the preceding day expressly for a news service, in which the following statement was made:

"It is true that success has been attained in the case of at least one aged Parisian, who not long ago was worn out and broken down in spirit by the battle of life. He is today back in harness, full of youthful vigor, ambition and zest of life, thanks to a simple operation I performed upon him. I cannot mention any names, but the man is a prominent political figure, whose notable rejuvenation has been the marvel of all his friends."

DENIES STORIES

It may be said right here that Dr. Voronoff, through his wife, denied authorship or responsibility for this article, as well as two others which appeared under his name in the same publication immediately preceding and following the one from which the quotation is taken. In the same categorical fashion denial was made that he had operated upon the man mentioned or any other until within the last few weeks, that is, this Summer.

In response to my request for an interview, I received a telephone invitation to call upon Mme. Voronoff.

She received me in the magnificent home of her father, the late Jabez A. Bostwick of the Standard Oil Company, at 800 Fifth Avenue. She is rather small and pretty and looked to be in her early thirties, although I learned that she was considerably older. She has reddish-brown hair, worn in simple fashion, and large, intelligent, bluishgray eyes.

"What can I do for you?" was her greeting.

"I came to see Dr. Voronoff and learn the truth about his work." I replied.

The ghost of a whimsical smile momentarily relieved the habitual immobility of her countenance as she replied with more spirit:

"And the truth is exactly what we wish to have known. That is the reason I invited you here.

"I regret that you cannot see Dr. Voronoff for the reason that he does not speak English well, and will give out no interviews and anything I say about our work can be understood as coming from him. I have been his assistant and co-worker in the laboratory for years and thoroughly understand his work, his methods and his aims.

"I can tell you at the outset in a nutshell that our work has nothing whatever to do with the reproduction of the human race."

GOVERNMENT SUPPORT

I hastened to interpose that the impression created in America was wholly different.

"I know that impression has been spread throughout the world by the yellow press," replied Mme. Voronoff, "but if we were to undertake to answer every wildly ridiculous and false story that has been printed about our work we would be pestered to death. We can afford to wait. Time will show what we have done.

"We do not represent charlatanism, and the serious, scientific world of Paris is fully aware of the value of our experiments. We have made the biggest stride in scientific medicine in fifty years, as time will amply demonstrate.

"Generally, we have been visited by youthful reporters who see the possibilities of an extravagantly imaginative yarn. They can hardly keep from grinning in our presence at the thought of what they are going to manufacture when they get back to their offices.

"Fortunately, both Dr. Voronoff and myself are blessed with a sense of humor"—again the faint smile lighted up Mme. Voronoff's face for a moment—"and we are able to appreciate the amusing features of the ridiculous things that are written about us.

"Why, in Paris, where they ridiculed us by depicting us in the cinema shows by putting us on the screen with a band of monkeys, we got more enjoyment out of the pictures than any one else present."

I had armed myself with a rather formidable list of questions based on the reports and rumors that had been circulated concerning Dr. Voronoff's work, and had expected to meet with a blunt refusal to answer them, and even frank hostility. It was a pleasant surprise, therefore, to find Mme. Voronoff not only willing but eager to respond to any and all questions.

Moreover, I could not but marvel at the intuitive perception she exhibited in forestalling nearly all the questions in the course of a running narrative that included almost every phase of Dr. Voronoff's laboratory work and its results. She was amazingly at home in her subject, and my wonder grew as I noted her facility of expression and lucidity.

The cable despatches alleged to have been written by Dr. Voronoff, and mentioned above, were shown to her.

"Dr. Voronoff did not write these or have anything to do with them," she exclaimed, "and I will demonstrate to you the absolute impossibility of his being in any way responsible for them. I will explain the nature of our work and the conditions under which it is carried on, and you can see for yourself that he could not have written these cables.

"Our work is carried on in the laboratories of the College of France under the supervision of the French Government. When we are ready to make a report, that report, first of all, must be submitted to the French Academy of Sciences. Following that, we have to wait about three months for the report to be printed in the official bulletin of the Academy. During the interim we are not permitted to give interviews or write articles pertaining to the subject matter of the report for other publication. The ethics of this method of procedure will be readily understood, of course.

BASIS OF RUMORS

"Dr. Voronoff read his report before the Academy on Oct. 8, 1919. It dealt with our gland-grafting experiments and their results. I see that these cable despatches, containing extravagant and fantastic tales, appeared in New York within a week following the meeting at the Academy, when ethics forbade Dr. Voronoff to discuss the matter.

"You will note that The Times interview is entirely different, being a denial of the claims made in the other despatches.

"Now I will explain our experiments, and give you an illustration of what we hope and believe we can accomplish. Our aim is to avert premature old age, and to prolong life.

"To illustrate: The grain of a man of 40 is mature. He has attaind the full development of his mental powers. The irresponsibility and the snap judgment of 25 are gone.

"But his physical self is weary and begins to lag; his blood and nerves and organs have lost their tone; age is beginning and he is on the verge of wearing out physically. He needs new blood, new tissues and stimulation.

"What is the ordinary procedure in such cases? To give tonics. But tonics, as is well known, are but temporary expedients.

"We take the interstitial glands of animals, and graft part of one on to a decrepit animal so that he begins to have new life and vigor."

At this point Mme. Voronoff, with pencil and paper, sketched a gland, explaining its two functions.

It ought to be mentioned how that one of the newer phases of medicine is the discovery of the manner in which the growth of the body is controlled and how life is regulated. A quotation from Sir Arthur Keith, M. D. L. L. D., F. R. S., Hunterian Professor and Conservator of the Museum, Royal College of Surgeons of England, will serve to illustrate:

"Nature has at her command some mechanicism by which she works out her new patterns in the bodies of man and beast—a mechanicism of which we were almost ignorant in Darwin's day, but which we are now beginning to perceive and dimly understand. * * * Hid away in various of of the human frame is a series of more or less obscure bodies or glands, five in number, which, in recent times we have come to recognise as parts of the machinery which regulate the growth of the body.

"They form merely a fraction of the body—not more than 1-180th part of it; a man might pack the entire series in his watch pocket.

"The modern medical student is familiar with each of them—the pituitary body, about the size of a ripe cherry, attached to the base of the brain and cradled in the floor of the skull; the pineal gland, also situated in the base of the brain, and in point of size but little larger than a wheat grain; the thyroid in the neck, set astride the windpipe, forms a more bulky mass; the two suprarenal bodies situated in the belly, capping the kidneys, and the interstitial glands * * * complete the list.

"The modern physician is also familiar with the fact that the growth of the body may be retarded, accelerated or completely altered if one or more of these glands become the seat of injury or of a functional disorder."

This declaration of Sir Arthur's, which appeared in The Lancet last year, will explain more clearly than any words of the present writer's the meaning sought to be conveyed by Mme. Voronoff.

THREE YEARS' EXPERIMENT

"We began these experiments three years ago," continued Mme. Voronoff, "and we have had one hundred successes with animals. We have also had a great many failures, but, unlike many experimenters, we report our failures as well as our successes."

Inquiry as to the method of grafting the glands brought this explanation:

"We do not remove the glands from the subject which is to undergo the operation; we simply make a cutaneous incision and insert part of a gland, which has been prepared for the purpose, beside the gland which is already there, then sew up the cut, trusting to nature to take care of the result.

"The reason for our failures is that it took a long time to find out just how large a section of gland to endeavor to graft on.

"We have only performed this operation on one man, and that within a few weeks. It is too early yet to announce the result, and the ethics mentioned govern the announcement.

"We took the gland of a chimpanzee because the higher apes are the nearest approach to man, and the microscopic and chemical tests show that the blood of man and of the chimpanzee are identical. Nature would reject a gland differing widely from that of man. It would either die or be absorbed."

"Did Dr. Voronoff devise these experiments?" I inquired, having in mind various similar operations performed by Dr. Robert T. Morris of New York, and Dr. Frank Lydston of Chicago, who operated upon himself and reported the result several years ago.

"There is nothing original under the sun," Mme. Voronoff replied, "but Dr. Voronoff was the first to undetake the matter from the physiological point of view and work it out to the end."

"What is your opinion of the late Sir Victor Horseley's contention that the grafting of glands is impractical because the results are ephemeral, and that to be of benefit these operations would have to be constantly repeated?" was the next question.

A SUCCESSFUL OPERATION

"I can answer that best by telling you about one of our experiments," Mme. Voronoff replied. "We took a ram 14 years old, which is equivalent to 90 years in a man. His legs were bent and shaky; he was emaciated; his eyes were sunk deep in his head; in fact, he was just an old dying animal.

"We introduced fresh glandular tissue and he became young, vigorous, sprightly. He is 18 years old now, corresponding to 120 in man, and is still active and vigorous."

"Why cannot glandular extracts be administered hypodermatically or by the mouth," I asked, "and the same results obtained?"

"Because the extracts would merely act as tonics and the effects would wear off," was the reply.

"And who are to benefit from these operations?" was the next question.

"Everybody," was the answer. "In France it is against the law to mutilate the human body, else we could obtain plenty of glands from the bodies of young persons just killed and executed criminals, and the glands could be kept in storage. I think there is a big future in maintaining farms for raising chimpanzees."

"Have you done anything about women in your experiments?" I asked.

"No, we haven't considered the question of women at all," was the reply. "Dr. Vonoroff, however, removed the glands from a ewe and grafted in others and exhibited the ewe and the lamb she subsequently had at the Congress of Surgeons which was held in London, I think, in 1913."

"Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute has had some experience in transferring glands and organs from one body to another," I ventured.

"Dr. Carrel is a friend of ours," was the reply. "He attacks the problem biologically, while we go at it from the physiological standpoint."

"Did Dr. Voronoff ever work in the Rockefeller Institute?" I required.

"Yes," was the answer; "in 1910 he did research work there for nine or ten months."

Last October it was stated at the Rockefeller Institute that Dr. Voronoff was unknown to its of-

Light Without Heat?

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest)

"In a recent debate on light here A says that all natural light gives heat of some temperature—even 'firebugs.' B says that a reflection from a mirror gives light and no heat. Is a reflection from a mirror natural light? And is there anything giving light and no heat?—W. H."

There is no "unnatural" light. All light is of the same essential nature, differing simply in intensity, visibility, color, etc. Of course, light reflected from a mirror is natural—it could be nothing else. Its quality, or intensity, may be changed because of the glass having absorbed some of its waves and reflected only the remainder, but those that are reflected are just as "natural" as when they were mingled with the others.

If the light reflected from a mirror produces less heating effect than before it was reflected the cause is to be found in this process of absorption of certain waves while others are reflected. Heat waves are mingled with light waves, and the proportion of heat rays absorbed may be greater than that of the light waves absorbed. The heat waves are longer than the light waves, but they all together form a connected series of vibrations of the ether, and the general name for them is radiant energy. The matter can hardly be put more clearly than Maxwell has put it:

"All hot bodies emit radiation. When the body is hot enough its radiations become visible, and the body is said to be red-hot. When it is still hotter it sends forth not only red rays, but rays of every color, and it is then said to be white-hot. When a body is too cold to shine visibly it still shines with invisible heating rays, which can be perceived by a sufficiently delicate thermometer, and it does not appear that any body can be so cold as not to send forth radiations."

Or, take this statement by Professor W. S. Franklin:

"Every portion of the radiation from a hot body is properly called radiant heat. Radiant heat, of which the wave-length lies between 39 and 75 millionths of a centimeter, affects the optic nerves and gives rise to the sensations of light. Therefore, radiant heat, of which the wave-length lies between these limits, is called light." "A" then, in your debate, was scientifically right. Where there is light there is heat, though it may not be perceived as heat. One person may be more sensitive to heat than another, and may even perceive only as heat what to another, with more sensitive nerves of vision and less sensitive nerves of sight, would appear to be only light.

So, too, by instrumental aid heat may be perceived where the unaided sense perceives none, and increase of instrumental perfection may extend the range of perception indefinitely. With a variable standard like that the presence or absence of heat would appear to depend upon the perceiver. Thus, ice is unmistakably cold to us, and to the unscientific mind it may appear ridiculous to affirm that ice radiates heat. Yet such is actually the case, and to beings composed of any substance or fitted to live in any environment as cold as liquid air ice would be excessively hot, and at its touch they would shrivel up like paper in a flame or evaporate like bubbles of water thrown on a red-presence or absence of heat from a chunk of ice in a room crowded with such beings would be as terrible as that of a blast furnace smelting iron in a dancing hall.

But this ambiguity is avoided when we take an absolute standard based upon the idea that light and heat are both related forms of radiant energy, and that heat is the more fundamental of the two. Then, by calculation depending upon the observed behavior of the simplest of substances, gases, we find a genuine starting point, an absolute zero of energy, and consequently of radiation, which lies about 459 degrees below the arbitrary zero of the ordinary Fahrenheit thermometer.

It is inferred (for science has not yet attained, and may never attain, actual absolute zero) that at the temperature named there could be neither light nor heat, and matter would remain altogether inert if, indeed, it retained any of the characteristics by which we know it as matter. But this side of absolute zero all bodies radiate energy, or, to quote Maxwell again, "no body can be so cold as not to send forth radiations"—unless its temperature has sunk to absolute zero, and therefore disappeared altogether. It follows that any body that gives light must radiate heat, in the scientific sense, even though, while it affects the sense of sight, it does not affect the nerves which perceive sensible heat.

She is indeed a charming matron, Ma sed. I prize her frendship vary high. We went to skoll together, sed Ma.

Well, sed Pa, she must be a deer old lady.

Why the old? sed Ma.

Didn't you say you went to skool together? sed Pa.

Well, what of that, sed Ma. Ma was looking at Pa like she looks at a book pedaller.

It is gitting cooler out, sed Pa, I think the Fall is almost here.

Sumthing will fall if you are not cairful how you speek about my freads, sed Ma. Missus Highroof is a charming middle aged matron, jest in her prime, sed Ma.

Bobbie, sed Pa, do you notis the pit-falls and snares wich are all around a married gent at all times sed Pa. I spoak of a lady's age and the pouder magazeen exploded, sed Pa. Nevver reefer to the flite of yeers in the presence of a femeale lady, sed Pa.

Why not, I sed. We are all gitting old together.

No, Bobbie, sed Pa. You and I are gitting old, but yure deer mother is un-chaigned by the flite of time, sed Pa. Yure mother and her frend Missus Highroof, sed Pa.

I suppose it is ridiklus for a woman to dred the approch of old age, sed Ma, but sumhow wimmen feel that wen thay grow old thay will lose thare charm for them wich thay love.

That is silly, sed Pa. Why, sed Pa, I care moar for you now than wen I used to call on you and sing luv songs to youg, sed Pa.

You doant sing songs to me now sed Ma.

That reely prooves that I care moar for you then I used to, sed Pa. I wud not torter yure genteeers, sed Pa.

Ma laffed. I reely beleeve I am happier now than wen you used to call on me, she sed to Pa. Wen you used to sing the Bedwin Love Song to me I had my douts about whether I shud marry you, sed Ma. But I felt sorry for you, I guess, sed Ma, so I married you and then I had the rite to ask you not to sing any moar.

Was that all the why you married me, sed Pa.

What ianwidge, sed Ma. Was that all the why? Who ever herd such a Fraze as that? sed Ma.

It is jest my quaint way, sed Pa. You wont let me sing for you any moar, sed Pa, so I have to maik you laff sum other way. Maybe wen Missus Highroof sees me she will want me to sing for her, sed Pa.

Wen I grow up I ain't never going to sing if my wife wont let me. Singing aint much anyhow, robbins can sing and thay doant know nothing.

Late Summer Sweaters

BY RITA STUYVESANT

There is no doubt at all that black is the most popular sweater of the season, and wherever the knitting needles are clicking, their way to fashion, it is through the medium of the black sweater. Sometimes it is knitted, sometimes crocheted in silk, and sometimes beautifully fringed for style, but always the color is black.

A favorite model is being worn extensively at the Summer resorts and is heavily fringed at the bottom and sleeves. It is a Tuxedo style, open down the front, and shows a pretty filet design. This model is well suited to the plump girl, while the slim girl may choose a slip-on model and rest assured that she is becomingly dressed. Worn with a white satin sport skirt, black and white sport ties, and white sport hat, these black sweaters are very striking.

A new sweater that shows the possibilities of novel knitting was recently displayed in raspberry wool, and was loosely knit on thick wooden needles. It was a slip-on affair, with a deep peplum and cuffs widely ruffled and was quite collarless. Black corded ribbon was threaded through the neck, sleeves and waist and tied in attractive little bows.

One of the daintiest effects in crochet work was achieved with orchid silk and silver ribbon. A charming long-waisted sweater was lengthened by a full ruffle and a monk's collar finished the round neck. Then to add silver touches, thin metallic ribbon was used as trimming.

For cool evenings in the country or on the bund, one may choose a wool coat sweater of maize and add to it a sailor collar and turn-back cuffs of white angora. A long string girdle closely knitted, and big pockets patched to the front will make this sweater winsomely attractive.

The sub-debs are wearing tiny little slip-ons with their Summer frocks that lend not a little color and a great deal of charm to one's costume.

HEIR TO NEW YORK ESTATE

Mme. Voronoff was asked the occasion of her present visit to New York.

"My mother died last April," she said, "and I had to come to settle the estate, as I am the only heir. Dr. Voronoff came along to bring me over and take me back. Before starting he said to me:

"'I think it would be a good plan to demonstrate my work while I am over there, if it can be done under proper auspices.'

"He is in touch with some surgeons, but of course he will not operate unless by invitation and in a proper hospital with competent surgical witnesses.

"We have been bombarded with letters from people who offer to supply us with their glands—for a consideration—but I think the writers hardly mean it, and we are wary of blackmailers.

"You will please remember if you read any extravagant or fantastic interviews they did not emanate from Dr. Voronoff or myself," said Mme. Voronoff, in conclusion, "and if you read of any old gentlemen frisking around unduly as the result of operations performed by Dr. Voronoff, I can tell you in advance there is no truth in those yarns."

Dr. Voronoff is of Russian birth, but a naturalised citizen of France. He is 52 years old and is said to be a giant of a man, six feet and four inches tall.

Gloomy Hospitals Depress M. Poiret

Fashion Expert Says Color Would Make Them Popular

London, August 14.—Monsieur Poiret, who has just vindicated the exclusive right to his own name in court here, comes out with a protest against the dreary color schemes of British doctors' waiting rooms and says: "What in the world is more depressing or more melancholy than the usual colors of waiting rooms and patients rooms in hospitals too?

"London out of doors is gloomy enough nine months of the year with its dull colors," he says, "but why perpetuate in the sickroom the sadness outside? Even the red walls of Drury Lane and Mayfair and the magazines leave but one thread of exclamation.

Mr. Poiret offers the suggestion of cherry patterns, pink pills and irridescent powders.

How To Make The Most Of Timber Pointed Out By Forest Service

It is a mistake to saw up choice logs of white oak, ash, cherry and yellow poplar for rough uses at home or to use clear black walnut for gate boards or split up white oak butts for fenceposts. This fact is emphasised in many ways in a new publication, Forestry and the Farm Income, issued by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Farmers are told that many valuable logs go into crossties when they would bring the owner much more if sold as saw logs. Likewise, large numbers of rapid-growing trees are cut which produce only one small tie, whereas if left to grow for from three to five years they would yield more than double the profit. To avoid making such mistakes owners of farm woodland should familiarise themselves with the uses for which each kind of timber is best adapted, says the publication.

Timber that is cut in the late Spring and Summer months should be handled with special care to avoid injury because freshly cut wood is then more likely to be attacked by insects and fungi than during the colder months. Seasoning proceeds more rapidly during the warmer season and may cause excessive checking, which is not beneficial to the timber. If rightly handled, posts, poles, and logs may be cut at any season without their durability being affected. In no case should wood be allowed to lie in direct contact with the ground. The opportunity for insect attack and decay can be reduced to a minimum by peeling the timbers and open piling them off the ground in a shaded but dry place. This, however, does not retard checking of the wood.

Logs are sometimes stored under water in the hot season to prevent blue stain, checking, insect attack and decay. Painting the ends of logs with yellow ocre or barn paint will very materially retard injury by end checking. Painting peeled timbers with creosote will prevent sap stain and decay.
